WORLD PEACE
MEETING TIED UP BY RUSSIADISPUTE ON VETO
RIGHTS CAUSES
STALEMATE

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
San Francisco, June 2 (AP)—Russia tossed the United Nations Conference into its tightest stalemate today with a demand for rigid interpretation of the Yalta formula giving the big-five powers veto rights in a world organization.

Overnight study of a Russian paper on the proposed security council voting procedure, disclosed wide differences between the Soviet on one side and the United States, Great Britain, China and France, on the other.

These four powers were in practical agreement on what they considered a "liberal" interpretation of the veto provision agreed upon by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin at Yalta.

Yalta Pact Quoted
The Russians were represented, however, as demanding that any of the big-five be permitted to exercise a veto against even bringing any dispute before the security council on which they would have permanent seats. The other four nations had agreed to an interpretation permitting the council to discuss international disputes, but requiring unanimity on any positive action.

The Russians were reported to hold that the Yalta agreement must be interpreted to give the big-five a veto over any discussions even of peace settlements of international disputes.

They also were said to have made it clear that in practical operation of the proposed league they thought the veto would not often be exercised to prevent the council from talking about disputes which had arisen.

But other big-five delegates said the Soviets wanted to retain the veto authority for use if they ever felt it was needed.

Presentation of the Russian viewpoint left the big-five knotted again in efforts to obtain agreement on an interpretation which had been asked by the smaller nations. The little powers had pronounced 22 questions on specific application of the veto power.

As the situation stood today, it appeared possible that no agreement would be reached by the big-five on a single joint interpretation although work was continuing in this direction.

Confusion Predicted
If two interpretations are permitted to stand, there will be confusion among the smaller powers as to where the veto applies. This conclusion could carry over into consideration of a list of other points on which the big-five have not yet reached complete agreement.

One highly placed delegate among the big-five who would not permit use of his name, said the Russian position has given rise to an explosive situation of the "utmost seriousness" because:

Small nations have been insisting that no single power should have the authority to prevent investigation of disputes or attempts to adjust them peacefully. And now Russia demands that any of the big-five should be empowered to block the mere airing of both sides of a controversy before the security council.

Despite the failure to consolidate immediately their position on the Yalta voting procedure, the big-five delegation chairman continued efforts to reach accord on a list of 18 other issues.

The Yalta voting question was

Produce, Preserve
And Conserve Food,
Nation Is Advised

Washington, June 2 (AP)—President Truman called on the American people today to produce, preserve and conserve all food possible as a "real contribution to the final victory and the peace."

He issued this statement:

"In this fourth year of war the need for every ounce of food which the American people can produce and preserve is greater than ever before."

"The supply lines to feed our troops and the millions fighting and working with them are the longest in the history of warfare. Along the thousands of miles of these lines, food must be kept moving. Our soldiers in Europe are eating more canned fruits and vegetables because they are changing from combat rations to regular meals."

"Beyond our tremendous military requirements lies the task of working with other nations to help liberated peoples regain their strength and rebuild their countries. There can be no lasting peace in a hungry world."

"We Americans must do our part to help swell the nation's food supply."

"I call upon every American to help discharge this obligation in every way possible:

"By growing a victory garden—whether it be in the backyard, in a community or company employee plot, or on the farm. There is still plenty of time to plant in most parts of the country."

"By dedicating ourselves to growing larger and better gardens and seeing them through to the harvest."

"By preserving our food at home or in a community canning center. Civilian supplies of commercially canned fruits and vegetables are now at the lowest point of the war, and next winter will be one-fourth less than last year."

"By conserving food in every possible way—wasting not an ounce. In anything so important and difficult as growing food, we cannot afford to take chances. We must always reckon with the weather, which in some parts of the country delayed plantings and damaged some fruit crops. We must plan for maximum production."

"With millions of American men and women dedicated to this task, our food will make a real contribution to the final victory and the peace."

NEW MINDANAO
LANDING MADEAmphibious Operation Is Designed To Envelop
Jap Garrisons

BY FRED HAMPSON
Manila, Sunday, June 3 (AP)—American doughboys, in a small amphibious operation, made a new landing on southern Mindanao Island Friday in a maneuver designed to envelop and decimate isolated Japanese garrisons.

The landing was a shore to shore operation, shifting some Yank forces, probably from the Davao area, to an invasion at Luayon, 75 miles south of Davao city on the island's western shore.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique reported the landing was made against only slight opposition and that the doughboys quickly penetrated inland.

Moving northwest from Davao, the 24th infantry division has liberated numerous towns in its drive inland on enemy forces pocketed between the Davao and Talomo rivers.

The uyan landing was supported by aerial and naval units and the 24th division push by bombers and fighters.

On Luzon Island, the 25th infantry division continued its advance into the Cagayan valley from Santa Fe, while to the east the 33rd infantry division occupied positions on Highway 11 seven and a half miles northeast of Baguio. These operations were supported by medium attack and fighter bombers which dropped 220 tons and fired many thousands of rounds in assaulting Japanese supply dumps and concentrations.

Steak Tossers Gets
Fine Of Only $25

Detroit, June 2 (AP)—Frank Zarzycki, 27, paid a $25 fine, and some folks think he got off easy. Here's what he did!

In a restaurant Friday night he ordered—and got—a T-bone steak. Complaining "there's too much fat on it," He stood up and tossed that steak across the cafe.

Recorder's Judge Gerald W. Groat assessed the fine today on a charge of disturbing the peace.

Britain, Paper Says

London, June 2 (AP)—The Sunday Chronicle bade a sentimental farewell to American troops today in an article which said, "it has been grand having you here."

"Please don't go back home and tell the folks that Britain is a dingy and shabby country with untidy streets and shops that have little worth buying," the article said. "It's a pity you are not staying long enough to see our shop windows looking smart, our street lights blazing, and you only additions to the damage were a few thousands wads of gum on park benches and cinema seats and a few lamp posts knocked over by your trucks, which some old ladies will go on calling lorries. Youngsters will call them trucks from now on—and call petrol—gas."

"You have certainly placed your mark on us. We shall never be quite the same again. Centuries hence lying historians may write of the destruction you have wrought. The truth is that the city had been well-bombed before you arrived and your only additions to the damage were a few thousands wads of gum on park benches and cinema seats and a few lamp posts knocked over by your trucks, which some old ladies will go on calling lorries. Detroit Attorney
Succeeds Tuttle
On Federal Bench

Washington, June 2 (AP)—Arthur A. Kosciński, a Detroit attorney for 35 years, has been named by President Truman to succeed the late Arthur J. Tuttle on the Federal bench in the Eastern Michigan district.

Rep. Sadowski (D-Mich) said today he was informed by the White House that the nomination of Kosciński would be sent to the Senate on Monday.

Kosciński, 58 years old, is a former member of the Michigan public trust commission and the Michigan constitutional revision study commission. Last year he was the Democratic candidate for secretary of state in the Michigan election, being defeated by Herman H. Dignam of Owosso.

His nomination ends speculation over the appointment which has continued since Judge Tuttle died last Dec. 2.

German Prisoners
Get Richer Diets
In Upper Peninsula

Ft. Sheridan, Ill., June 2 (AP)—Col. George H. Cushman, commander of Ft. Sheridan, announced today that the daily caloric diet of German prisoners of war in northern Michigan would be increased from 3,400 to 3,700.

Col. Cushman said the prisoners were put on the diet of 3,400 calories per day beginning March 3, but a report from medical officers showed that the men cannot do heavy manual labor on that diet. The prisoners are employed at such tasks as cutting wood and making ties and fences.

The average American soldier gets 4,500 calories per day, Col. Cushman said.

Trouble In Syria
Blamed On British
By Gen. De Gaulle

BY RELMAN MORIN

Paris, June 2 (AP)—General De Gaulle charged today that Syrians who fought the French "carried arms furnished by the British" and suggested that a four-power conference including Russia negotiate the question "of the whole Arab world"—an area where British interests predominate.

When asked to give the names of the "crowd" of British agents which he said precipitated the Syrian and Lebanese uprising, De Gaulle said "everyone knows their names, and I would blush to give them to you."

The French leader outlined the French side of the Levant dispute which has found the Syrians and Lebanese refusing to negotiate with the French because of French wishes for concessions in their homelands.

"It would be a most monstrous absurdity," said De Gaulle, "if, having ended the war against Germany, we should find ourselves confronted by bloody incidents between the Allies."

De Gaulle told of French-British political and economic clashes in the Middle East dating from the last World War and clearly indicated his refusal to submit the Middle East problem to a tripartite meeting of France, Britain and the United States, as proposed by Prime Minister Churchill three days ago.

He declared Churchill's message "will change nothing," adding "I haven't thought it necessary to reply to this message."

Reminding his listeners at a press conference that Russia has interests in the Middle East, De Gaulle said:

"There are many who are interested in this question. First of all there are the big four—France, Britain, the United States and Soviet Russia. And there are also the Arab states."

"These constitute a group. If they want to settle the question in a normal manner—and I hope peacefully—they must consider it all together and not from the point of view of stupid rivalry."

De Gaulle said France was entitled to military bases the same as Britain and the United States and charged that the "British attitude" in the Middle East was one reason for France's inability to give full independence to Syria and Lebanon.

De Gaulle indicated his willingness to submit the explosive question to international discussion providing Russia was invited to participate and "the question of the whole Arab world, including Egypt, Iran, Palestine and others" was discussed.

FLOOD STRIKES
MIDLAND, MICH.Low Parts Of City Under Water; Storm Damages
Fruit Crops

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The rain-swollen Tittabawassee River climbed Saturday night to a level of 19.15 feet, overflowed its banks and flooded low parts of the city of Midland.

Some 75 volunteers were called to sandbag dikes of the Wolverine Power Co. dam at Edenville, 20 miles northwest of Midland.

As the water continued to rise, highway M-20, running west of Midland and other country roads were completely blocked to traffic. The heavy rains that fell throughout the state caused additional damage to western Michigan fruit crops already retarded by frost and cold weather.

Some 30 families, mainly from trailer homes on the west side of the Tittabawassee were evacuated Saturday. The river, which more than doubled its level since Friday morning, stood just below 19 feet at noon Saturday, and the waters were still rising more than three inches per hour.

Water flooded Midland's streets when the rains overtaxed the sewerage system, and the city's Emerson Park and Currie Stadium were under water.

Although near-freezing temperatures and high winds in western Michigan damaged fruit crops, garden crops were believed to be little hurt because of their retarded growth.

Rainfall in the Midland area was recorded at three inches, and more than an inch fell in the western part of the state. Traverse City reported winds that reached cyclonic velocity and a heavy fall of hailstone.

FRANK O'BRIEN

Damascus, June 2 (AP)—Angry Syrian crowds caught and killed two Senegalese soldiers trying to reach French headquarters from their outpost today while British troops strove to protect the French.

French troops are being taken from their barracks in the city by the British under cover of the curfew, and barracks as yet not evacuated are guarded heavily by British armor. All Senegalese guards at the French headquarters are heavily armed.

Some French conscripts early today fired on passersby from a barracks wall, wounding two. The British were rescued by British tanks.

Since noon, Damascus has been quiet, but there is angry tension as citizens inspect their costs in lives and property from the three-day battle here. Casualties still have not been assessed fully.

Meanwhile it was announced that Gen. Olviva-Roget, French officer who directed the bombing, shelling, and machinegunning of Damascus which started Tuesday night, has been dismissed from his command by British request.

The British sought to recover loot taken from Damascus hotels during the fighting.

Syrians looted several French houses today while cheering crowds of townspeople looked on. They were halted by strong patrols of Syrian gendarmes.

British Ninth Army forces continued to take over trouble spots throughout Syria. Though communications continue bad, it was believed the British had entered Hama, Hama and Aleppo. Hama was reported as badly or worse damaged than Damascus, particularly from shelling, with casualties believed high.

CHINESE CLOSE
IN ON PAOCHINGGap Torn In Japan's
Overland Corridor
To Indo-China

BY SPENCER MOOSA

Chungking, Sunday, June 3 (AP)—Chinese troops today imperiled the Japanese-held former American airbase of Shaoyang (Paoching) in south-central China after smashing enemy fortifications on the town's approaches, the Chinese high command said in a special communique.

The command said Japanese troops were falling back to Shaoyang's outskirts after Chinese veterans seized three outer bastions—Yenkowpu, eight miles west; Tan-kow, 19 miles northwest, and Chukowpu, 23 miles northwest.

The Chinese burst through Shaoyang's defenses after launching fierce attacks in which the Japanese suffered heavy casualties, the communique said.

Shaoyang is one of the most important strongholds in Hunan province guarding the west flank of the ruptured Japanese corridor to Indo-China, and its capture would cut the inner line of Japanese defense stretching from Hankow to Hong Kong.

A 150-mile gap already has been torn in the southern end of Japan's overland corridor.

At opposite ends of the breach, Chinese troops shelled 15 miles across south China's bleak plateau lands to within 22 miles of the Indo-China border and posed a new threat from the south to the big, former U. S. 14th air force base at Liuchow.

Aides Of Quisling
Held For Treason

Oslo, June 2 (AP)—Bernhard Askvig, president of the Oslo police under Quisling, and Henri Endsjoe, German-promoted chief editor of the newspaper Aftenposten, were charged with high treason at a preliminary hearing today.

Askvig pleaded guilty on only one count, confessing he was responsible for the arrest of underground Patriots, while Endsjoe pleaded innocent. They were remanded to prison for four months to await trial.

POPE HOPEFUL
FOR GERMANY
RID OF NAZISPEACE IN EUROPE
STILL FRAGILE,
SAYS PONTIFF

BY GEORGE BRIA

Vatican City, June 2 (AP)—Pope Pius XII expressed the hope today that the German people, purged of Nazism, "can rise to new dignity and new life," but said that postwar Europe is menaced by a "tyranny no less despotism than those for whose overthrow men planned."

In a world broadcast on Saint Eugene's day—his name day—the Pontiff reviewed the Vatican's prewar German policy.

The Holy Father defended the rights of the small nations "to take their destinies in their own hands" and said the future "harmonious relations between men" was threatened by mobs of "dispossessed, disillusioned, disappointed and hopeless men who are going to swell the ranks of revolution in the pay of a tyranny no less despotism than those for whose overthrow men planned."

Church Critics Answered
The Pope declared that the Vatican concluded the 1933 concordat with Germany "to set up a formidable barrier to the spread of ideas at once subversive and violent" and he asserted that Pius XI, his predecessor, denounced the Nazi regime in 1937 after the "solemn pact" had been deliberately violated by the Germans.

"Nobody," he said, "could accuse the church of not having denounced and exposed in time the true nature of the national socialist movement and the danger to which it exposed Christian civilization."

The Pope's outline of the church's stand on Germany was apparently in answer to criticism that the Vatican's attitude toward Nazi Germany had been ambiguous or favorable.

The Pope declared that during the years of nunciature in Berlin he had "occasion to learn the great qualities of the people and we were personally in close contact with its most representative men."

"For that reason," he added, "we cherish the hope that it can rise to new dignity and new life when once it has laid the satanic spectre raised by national socialism, and the guilty, as we have already at other times had occasion to expound, have expiated the crimes they have committed."

End War Game
The Pope described the peace in Europe today as "yet very fragile which cannot endure or be consolidated except by expending on it the most assiduous care." He called on all the peoples of the world "to devote themselves to it, each in his own office and at his own place."

The Pontiff declared the "primary task of the peace framers is to put an end to the criminal war game and to safeguard vital rights and mutual obligations as between the great and small, the powerful and the weak."

Pope Pius, apparently referring to the world security conference at San Francisco, said "the whole of mankind follows the progress" of a new peace organization.

"What a bitter disillusionment it would be if it were to fail," he said, "if so many years of suffering and self-sacrifice were to be made in vain by permitting again to prevail that spirit of oppression from which the world hoped to see itself at last freed once and for all."

"The poor world, to which then might be applied the words of Christ: 'Its new state is become worse than that from which it has with such labor extricated itself.'"

Lindbergh Testing
Planes In Europe

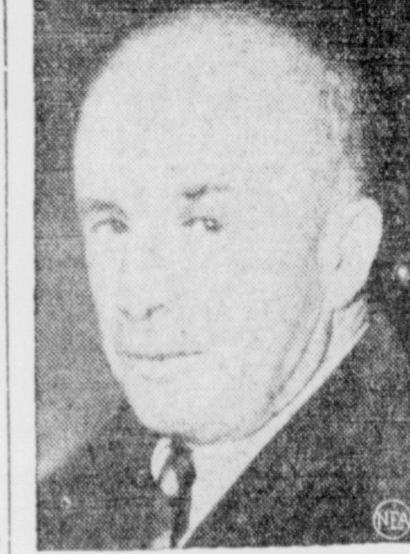

Hartford, Conn., June 2 (AP)—The United Aircraft Corporation said today that Charles Lindbergh, its technical advisor, had been in Europe since before V-E day and that he probably would stay for some time.

Lindbergh, the company said, was continuing the work of studying the corporation's equipment under wartime conditions.

The corporation said it did not know precisely where Lindbergh was at the moment but said a recent report from Europe indicated he might inspect some German jet-propelled helicopters discovered by our occupying forces.

CONVICTS RIOT;
16 SHOT DOWNGuns Quell Disturbance
At State Prison
In Maryland

BY JOHN F. CHANDLER

Jessup, Md., June 2 (AP)—Sixteen prisoners were shot and three guards and a state trooper wounded tonight before 900 Maryland house of correction convicts, who apparently rioted because of a meat scarcity, could be driven back into their cells and order restored.

For more than three hours the inmates, all serving short terms for minor offenses, ran wild in the cell tiers despite dousing with fire hoses, tear gas and an offer by the State Superintendent of Prisons, Harold E. Donnell, to talk to a committee of their number.

The men, about 70 per cent of them negroes, fought back with buckets of scalding water and bottles and with clubs torn from cell furniture and fittings, smashing thousands of windows in the huge building and starting a quickly-quelled fire in the shirt shop.

Dr. John Clark, prison physician, said none of the prisoners was seriously hurt. A dining room guard, W. H. Dean, was stabbed in the back and taken to St. Agnes hospital. The other two guards suffered only minor hurts but State Trooper 1/c Hugh N. Kavanagh was gashed in the back when prisoners attacked officers trying to close a door.

War Zone Bombers
Fly To Willow Run
And Go In Storage

Dayton, O., June 2 (AP)—Hundreds of war-weary heavy bombers flown to the United States from Europe by their own crews will be processed for storage at the Ford Motor company's Willow Run plant at Detroit, Air Technical Service Command headquarters at Wright Field announced today.

The bombers will be replaced by newer and more up-to-date planes for duty in the Pacific war, the announcement said. Ships to be prepared for storing, starting next Monday, have outlived their usefulness, it added.

After reaching the east coast, the bombers will be ferried to Detroit by the Air Transport Command for processing and storage in two Willow Run hangars. Technical details of the program were arranged by the ATSC in conjunction with Ford engineers. ATSC officers estimated 1,000 persons would be employed in the processing, designed primarily to prevent corrosion.

Tanner, Anti Red,
Resigns In Finland

Stockholm, June 2 (AP)—The newspaper Expressen today reported the resignation of Vaino Tanner, a storm center of Finnish politics because of his anti-Russian views, as president of the International Cooperatives Alliance which he long had headed. He formerly was finance minister and foreign minister.

Tanner's main political strength in Finland lay in the fact that he ran its cooperative system. The newspaper said an Englishman was slated to replace Tanner when the Cooperatives' International Congress assemblies in September in London.

HALSEY BACK
IN COMMAND OF 3RD FLEETVETERAN SKIPPER
TURNS GUNS ON JAP HOMELAND

By Ray Cronin
Associated Press War Editor

Wasting no time after returning to their commands in the far western Pacific, Adm. William F. Halsey and Vice Adm. John S. McCain sent American carrier aircraft in smashing blows against airfields on Kyushu, southernmost Japanese home island, Saturday.

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced the carrier-borne raid on five Kyushu airfields a few hours after disclosing that Halsey resumed command of his U. S. 3rd Pacific fleet on May 27 and that McCain returned to command of that fleet's fast carrier force on the same date.

Okinawa Rain Storms
The carrier pilots found lean pickings, destroying only 13 enemy aircraft and damaging 23. However, this was proof of the excellent neutralization of Kyushu airfields achieved in recent weeks by B-29s and Fifth fleet carrier planes under Adm. Raymond A. Spruance and Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher, who have retired from sea duty temporarily.

Aground on Okinawa, improved visibility and cessation of rain permitted the U. S. 10th army to employ heavy artillery fire and use more armor as it fanned out to trap Japanese troops. More than 13 inches of rain fell on Okinawa the last 10 days of May.

The 96th infantry division seized previously bypassed Chan, two miles south of captured Shuri, and approached Tera, further south. The First Marine division crossed the Naha-Yonabaru highway as the 7th infantry division mopped up Shuri. The 7th infantry division captured Ogusuku and approached Shinzato town in its advance toward Chinen Peninsula on the southeast coast.

Victory In 10 Days
The veteran skipper picked up his unfinished business in the far west Pacific at a time when Japan's war situation was extremely dark, with the B-29 battered Nippon homeland, on strategic Okinawa Island, in China and in the Philippines.

Chinese forces scored new victories to endanger Japan's Hankow-Hongkong inner defense line and to widen the breach in the Nippon corridor to southern Asia.

American doughboys made a new landing on Mindanao Island in the southeast Philippines to envelop and liquidate Japanese garrisons in that area.

On Okinawa the shattering of the Japanese Shuri line by Yank Marines and doughboys brought the statement from an American naval spokesman that the backbone of Nippon's defenses on the island has been broken. Some officers felt conquest there will be complete within 10 days.

Halsey marked his return to action with a thunderous barrage of naval guns against the Japanese on southern Okinawa.

HOME CANNING SUGAR HALTED

No Applications To Be Accepted Here Until Further Notice

Effective yesterday morning, issuance of sugar rations for home canning was discontinued by the Delta county War Price and Rationing board. Coincidentally, James Anderson, secretary of the board, announced that until the current situation is clarified no application blanks will be issued or received. Applications already filed also are "frozen".

The following statement was issued by L. L. Farrell, district OPA administrator:

"Home canning sugar situation is alarming. Effective 12:01 a. m., Saturday, June 2, discontinue all home canning sugar issuance until further notice, pending development of a plan for keeping regional issuance within quota, allotted to OPA by WFA. This action is necessary because so many people have applied for canning sugar in amounts which obviously cannot be used for canning purposes.

"Do not distribute or accept any further applications for home canning sugar, except those postmarked prior to 12:01 a. m., June 2. Sugar ration currency shall not be issued for applications on hand or postmarked prior to June 2. All district and board quotas previously established are hereby withdrawn."

Ore Tonnage Falls Behind Last Year

Cleveland, June 2 (AP)—Loading of iron ore during May at northern ports totaled 11,121,203 gross tons, or 933,008 tons behind shipments of a year ago. The Lake Superior Iron Ore association reported today.

May's loadings were greater, however, than the 7,282,074 tons in April, opening month for freights.

The 1945 ore movement to June 1 reached 18,403,277 gross tons, or 5.75 per cent above the figure to that date in 1944. The report said the increase was due to good April sailing conditions.

Enlistments Reopen For Regular Army

Washington, June 2 (AP)—President Truman has signed legislation authorizing the war department to resume the acceptance of enlistments in the regular army.

Requested by the army as part of its postwar program, the legislation permits enlistments for three years or for the duration of the war and six months thereafter.

Many earlier enlistments for three year periods have expired and the ban on enlistments while personnel was being recruited through selective service had prevented enlistments.

Battleship Iowa Sees Plenty Action In War On Nippon

BY LEIF ERICKSON

Guam, Sunday, June 3. (AP)—The 45,000 ton battleship Iowa, it now can be disclosed, has played an action-packed role in the war against Japan. She was the first warship of her class to be sent against Nippon.

Under command of Captain (now admiral) John L. McCrea, Marietta, Mich., the Iowa bombarded Kwajalein and Eniwetok in the Marshalls prior to their invasion early last year and pursued Japanese ships fleeing the February, 1944, attack on Truk.

She participated in the invasion of Hollandia, April, 1944, bombarded Palau, Ponape in the Carolines and Saipan and Tinian in the Marianas.

The Iowa covered carrier operations against the Philippines and fought in the battle of Leyte Gulf last October.

When launched, the Iowa was the heaviest ship ever to go down the ways in American shipyards. She now has three sister battleships—the New Jersey, Wisconsin and Missouri.

Capt. Allan R. McCann, Washington, D. C., succeeded McCrea as the skipper. The Iowa's present skipper is Capt. James L. Hollaway Jr., Dallas, Tex., and Arlington, Va.

Executive officers have been Cmdr. (now captain) Thomas J. Casey, New York City, and Cmdr. (now captain) George A. Leahey, Lowell, Mass. The present executive officer is Cmdr. Thomas J. Flynn, New York.

In 1943, the Iowa carried President Roosevelt to Africa for historic meetings with other Allied leaders.

M. J. KELLERMAN, ESCANABA, DIES

Was Bridge And Building Foreman With Milwaukee Road

Max Joseph Kellerman, 69, well known resident of Escanaba the past 43 years, died at St. Francis hospital at 7 o'clock yesterday morning following a year's illness.

Mr. Kellerman was born in Juneau, Wis., August 26, 1875. For many years, he was employed as bridge and building foreman with the Milwaukee Road. He was an ardent hunter and fisherman, and during the past three years spent much of his time at his cottage in Stonington. Mr. Kellerman retired from the railroad service seven years ago.

Besides his widow, he is survived by one brother, Harry, Watertown, Wis., and three sisters, Mrs. Cecelia Lauerman, Mrs. George Newton and Jane Kellerman, Marinette, Wis.

Funeral services will be held at St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, and burial will be in the Gardens of Rest cemetery. The body will lie in state at the Anderson Funeral Home, beginning this afternoon. Friends and relatives will assemble at the funeral home at 8 o'clock Monday evening to recite the Rosary.

Allocation Body To Meet Monday On Final Hearing

The Delta county tax allocation commission will meet Monday night in court rooms at the court house in Escanaba, when a final hearing on preliminary tax rates for the schools and the county will be held.

C. P. Titus, county school commissioner, is chairman of the commission. Other members are Robert C. Pryal, county treasurer; Supervisor Harold Gustafson, chairman of the county finance committee; Councilman Peter N. Logan of Escanaba, Helmer Skogquist of Gladstone, C. Gust Peterson, member of the Escanaba board of education.

The finance committee of the county board of supervisors, and the school boards of Escanaba and Gladstone are expected to attend the meeting.

The tentative allocation made by the commission is: Schools 8.8 mills; county 6.1 mills. The tentative allocation would take 9 mill from the county and add 9 mill to the schools.

DRAFT GROUPS LEAVE JUNE 25

Revised Regulations In Effect For 4-F's Under 26

Delta county draft registrants selected for induction in June, as well as registrants called for pre-induction on a secondary call for military service only (limited service). This group will leave Escanaba at 7 a. m. Monday, June 25.

The preinduction quota for the month is 78 men, and they will leave at 6:30 p. m., June 25. This group will receive dinner in Escanaba before their departure by bus for Marquette.

The local board announced yesterday that registrants in the 18-25 age group who have been rejected for military service will be recalled for examination. Those found not qualified for general military service may be accepted for limited service under reduced physical requirements. A maximum of one-third of the preinduction quota for June may include registrants in this category.

Olafson Helps Put Heat On Hirohito

BY ANDY P. OLAFSON

Well I see by the Paper how our House Cleaning is going good on Japan when we start a little Plastering from the bombers and Wiped out Tokyo and Mopped up O. K. nawa island and the Philippines and the Japs will get a Worse cleaning than what Germany did and too bad Hitler the papper Hanger could not Stick around to see it on acct. of like all Papper hangers he left a awful Mess behind him and it is too bad our Boys haveing to stick around and help them Nazi butchers clean it up but we Owe it to the Boys who will not come back that we have to see this through now for good and you can put it in the Papper that I am coming to town Saturday on Govt. business which is I am buying Bonds to back up the U. S. A. of America and help our boys finish Cleaning house on those Horses Tooth hoodlums of Hirohito

OLAFSON

And my Coussin Army is coming to town on Govt. business too he is going to Join up the Navy but he plan to get there in time to March in Parade down the sts. of Tokyo but now there is no Tokyo left to march in to say nothing of the Sts. so he figure he better hurry by the time he gets there it will be no more towns left to march in those bomber boys are Polishing them off so fast

Well I hope you have not changed your under wears yet on acct. you will have to wait until the moon changes now then it will be safe to change your self & taking off the long ones but keep them handy by or you will get chilled like our Early potatoes did and we have to planting them over so that will hold me up on getting started again on build that bridge across the bay to Stonington but you can bet when it gets built I will not tear it down again like the Govt. is doing with the new Docks and that is the biggest W. P. & A. job I ever heard of for keeping it stretched out

Now do you call my business black market? I collected points and turned them in to the O.P.A. I never sold my meat over ceiling prices, so I believe I have lived up to the regulations. What these other men have done, I don't know. But I feel it is very unfair to put my name in the paper and lead people to believe I am operating in the black market.

The O.P.A. failed to notify me about these changes in their rules. It is too bad that these two new investigators did not come to Delta county sooner.

They probably would have notified us about these changed rulings, and it surely would have been very simple to add the grade letter to our records.

Thank you for printing this. Sincerely, Joseph LaVigne

Distribution of Meat

THE new OPA plan to spread the available supply on a more equitable basis will be welcomed in communities that have been hardest hit by the current meat famine. It has long been common knowledge that the meat packers have given most favorable distribution to their nearby areas, while more distant areas received a corresponding decrease in meat supplies. If the OPA can enforce the new regulations requiring slaughters to distribute at least 90 percent of any county's proportionate share over a three month's period, there undoubtedly will be more meat available in communities that have felt the meat pinch most severely.

The OPA rationing program presumes that every citizen is entitled to his proportionate share of the nation's food supply and allocates ration points on that basis. In many areas, however, consumers cannot find the meat that their ration coupons entitle them to purchase. Inequitable distribution has served to render ration points valueless in such areas.

The new program won't solve the problem completely, however. Detroit, for instance, is reported to be getting only half of the meat, on a per capita basis, as the rest of the state because producers won't ship sufficient hogs into the Detroit area due to a faulty ceiling price schedule. The new OPA program requires slaughters to distribute their available supply equitably, but if Detroit slaughters don't get much of a supply, there is nothing in the new OPA regulations that will assure Detroit residents of more meat.

The solution in such cases, of course, is an adjustment of ceiling prices to assure the receipt of an equitable supply.

U. P. Aviation Council

RECOGNITION to the greater role that aviation will play in Michigan after the war is given by Governor Kelly by his request that an Upper Peninsula aviation advisory council be appointed in the near future.

Grover C. Dillman, chairman of the Upper Peninsula Planning commission and president of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology, has been entrusted with the responsibility of selecting members of the council. Apparently, this group will advise the state aeronautical development programs for the state.

Just now when our minds are preoccupied by the more serious aspects of the war, we regard early planning of this type with only casual interest. But as soon as the war is ended, there is bound to be a surge of activity in the commercial aviation field, and those communities that are ready with adequate airport facilities stand to reap the most benefit.

A half dozen applications have been filed with the Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington for permits to establish passenger, express and mail routes to serve the Upper Peninsula. Not all these plans will advance to fruition, but certainly some of them will.

Sault Ste. Marie enjoyed the fast transportation provided by the Pennsylvania Central Airlines before the war, and is making a vigorous effort to obtain resumption of this service. Resort interests in the state are looking to increased business as a result of air travel after the war, and in many other ways there will be benefits accruing to communities that are fortunate enough to be located on airways.

They'll Have to Pay

PRESIDENT TRUMAN has given his wholehearted endorsement to the United States Treasury plan to hire 10,000 new employees, many of them former service men, to launch a drive on tax dodgers and black market operators.

Like in the days when Al Capone and his gangsters made millions on illegal liquor and gambling operations, the black marketeers are waxing rich by dishonest dealing in sugar, meat and other commodities in World War II. But, the revenue officers will be on their trail, and they may have to pay dearly.

Those who sell profitably in the black markets are able to do so only because people are willing to buy. While most consumers admit that price control is necessary, they are unwilling to make any personal sacrifice to make it work. Too many people are willing to pay prices over the ceiling to obtain what they want.

Consolidated Schools

LACK of teachers and finances will result in the closing of about five hundred Michigan schools, mainly one-room schoolhouses, for the last time within the next few weeks.

According to Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction, about twenty reorganizations are being planned after July, involving an estimated 200 one-room schools. Another indication of the continuing trend toward consolidation of schools is the fact that the department has received requests for priority approval for 100 school busses. School districts are finding it more economical to transport students to a central school than to maintain isolated one-room schools, many of which have too few pupils per teacher.

War-time difficulties are in this respect working to the advantage of rural youth. The school consolidation movement is being hastened, a development that promises better educational opportunities for the children of the smaller communities.

Too Much Secrecy

FIVE children and a woman were killed on May 5 when they disturbed a Japanese balloon bomb which had landed in an isolated area in Oregon.

The Japanese had been flying these balloons for some weeks before the fatalities occurred, but a strict censorship had been invoked by military authorities. Secrecy was maintained so that the Japanese would not learn where the balloons were falling, although it is apparent now that the American public could have been informed without endangering the nation's security.

If the public had been informed, the Oregon tragedy might have been averted. It is possible that the strict censorship would have remained in effect longer had not Senator Langer of North Dakota filed a vigorous protest with the war department. The senator insisted the public should be told the facts, and that this could be done without revealing any vital information to the enemy. The incident again demonstrates the value of civilian criticism in wartime for the military experts are not always right.

Other Editorial Comments

CANADA'S MEAT EMBARGO (Detroit Free Press)

Canada has clamped an embargo on the retail purchase of meat in Windsor by residents of Detroit.

By this action, the Dominion Government cuts off a source of food supply for the thousands of meat-hungry Detroiters who daily patronized Windsor stores. Their trade had become so heavy that our neighbors across the River were being faced with shortages themselves. Moreover, the Detroit shoppers were abusing their privileges and making nuisances of themselves, according to Windsor authorities.

Canada is entirely within its rights in clamping down on this traffic. It is their country, their meat and their people have the right to protect themselves.

But at the same time, the situation points again to laxity on the part of the American Government.

Canada has a surplus of meat. By what reason of logic, then, does the United States Government refuse to purchase or permit the purchase of that excess for importation and distribution either to the Armed Forces or the civilian population? Or, why does not the United States arrange with Canada for the shipment of that surplus to liberated Europe, thus reducing the amount which we are sending abroad?

For more than a year these questions have been asked and the Federal authorities have not once attempted to answer them.

It is about time that some realistic effort was made to provide a solution to this problem.

VACATION PROSPECTS BRIGHTEN (Grand Rapids Press)

Upward revision of gasoline allowances, long predicted as the aftermath of victory in Europe, couldn't have come at a more favorable time from the standpoint of the west Michigan resort area.

While the liberalized allotment will not of course permit long motor trips such as people used to take before the war, it will at least make possible more frequent fishing trips, picnics in the country, week-end excursions and dips in Lake Michigan for urban dwellers. These recreational jaunts will be particularly welcome to returning war veterans, many of whom will be newly discharged or furloughed on their way to the Pacific.

OPA was careful not to specify whether the new allowances will remain in effect for the duration of the war or are merely temporary concessions. But there is no need to borrow trouble. Prospects for a pleasant summer are greatly enhanced by the welcome announcement of increases in coupon values and mileage limits. If curtailment should become necessary later, as the Japanese war approaches full tempo, we may hope it will coincide with the onset of bad weather and the end of the resort season.

Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, tells me in a letter that: "The broad 'A' STAHSEN is the correct pronunciation from the Norwegian derivative, and the flat sound as in the noun 'asset,' or 'fashion' might be called the English or American pronunciation and is equally correct. Both pronunciations are used by my personal friends and relatives."

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—For twelve years and four months Stephen Early has held down one of the most trying jobs in the country. As press secretary to President Roosevelt, he was a buffer between the public, as represented by press and radio, and the greatest single source of power and prestige in the nation.

It is a tribute to Steve Early's toughness that he has come through this ordeal. He is the only survivor of the small group of intimates whom Roosevelt brought into the White House with him.

Louis Howe, Marvin McIntyre, Marguerite Le Hand, General "Pa" Watson—one by one they went down. The pace of events has been furious and unceasing. America and the world moved from one crisis to another. The strain on those at the center of the whirlwind can be understood, really, only by those who have had to work there.

In his position Early served two temperamental masters. Franklin Roosevelt invariably presented a genial exterior. But his very geniality, his whimsicality, often must have made Early's task almost unbearably difficult. Of the many virtues that made up FDR's greatness, precision was not one.

—EARLY WAS ARBITER—

On the other side of the desk were the working newspapermen and the broadcast-casters, and behind them was the whole powerful complex of press and radio—the information industry. In the beginning years of the Roosevelt administration, the relationship with the working press was excellent. Later it deteriorated, and Early was often forced into the role of arbiter between "The Boss" and the men who wanted the news.

After Roosevelt's election to a fourth term, Early begged to be released. Reluctantly the President consented, recognizing the sacrifice his old friend Steve had made in staying on so long at a salary very much less than he could have obtained in private life. Early accompanied "The Boss" to the Yalta conference and it was agreed that he should leave the White House on June 1.

Then came the President's death. Early stayed on to help Roosevelt's successor through the difficult transition period.

His help has been so invaluable that President Truman has said that if it weren't for the circumstances of Early's long term of service, he would insist that he remain. In every possible way Early has helped to make the transition more smooth.

Most people think only of the public, ceremonial side of the presidency. They do not realize the hard, slugging work that must come out of the White House. They do not see the endless swarm of chiselers, favor-seekers, petitioners of every rank and kind who are forever plotting and planning to get to the source of power. They do not see the flood of papers that every day rains down on the executive offices, each document calling for a decision.

—MUCH CEREMONIAL WORK—

On top of this burden is the ceremonial side. The President must entertain princes and potentates in the style to which they are accustomed, giving each one enough personal attention to gratify his self-importance. He must do all this on a salary reduced by taxes to $28,000 a year, and out of the $28,000 come living costs for a staff of servants and other items incidental to existence in the big White House on Pennsylvania avenue. The wonder is that ambitious men go on wanting to be president.

For a new man in the office, the problems are multiplied many times over. He has so much to learn. One reason for the ease of the transition, as Truman himself has told his intimates, is the guidance which Early has provided. Now, at several times his government salary, Early will represent the Pullman Company in Washington.

President Truman has meanwhile been assembling his own personal staff. This is the privilege of every President. The ties are close and the loyalties must be personal. At least two of the new White House staff are newcomers to Washington. Fortunately, in Charles G. Ross, his press secretary, the President has an adviser who knows out of long experience as a newspaper correspondent the ins and outs of the capital.

The most difficult phase is ended. Truman is now familiar with the wheels within wheels at the center of executive power. He has had an excellent coach in these first weeks, which may be one reason why his record at the start is good.

correct English pronunciation of Rio Grande is "RY-oh grand." Right?—E. S. B.

Answer: "RY-oh" for Rio is a corruption. In Texas, the river is often called "REE-oh grand." But best usage in Texas is the Spanish: REE-oh GRAHN-day Rio Grande means "big river." Hence, to speak of the "Rio Grande river" is redundant.

From H. D. T. Los Angeles: Can you match this dangling construction from a local news item: "A studio spokesman announced that movie star Loretta Young will become a mother for the second time this fall."

Answer: In a recent column titled "International Voting" Walter Lippman intimated this classic: "It (the argument) is beginning to resemble the row between the two old boys on the park bench which broke out." Quite a hot seat, I should think. Or was it measles?

TAKE YOUR CHOICE—It all depends on the columnist you read. Commenting on the retirement of Francis Biddle as U. S. attorney general in the cabinet shakeup under President Truman, Leonard Lyons of "The Lyons Den" and Drew Pearson of "The Washington Merry-Go-Round" can't agree. Their disagreement is glaringly evident in their columns side-by-side on the Daily Press editorial page of June 1.

Lyons, writing from New York, says: "Truman stepped up to the shoulder and said: 'I want to see you for a minute.' The Attorney General nodded and stepped aside to talk to the President—who then uttered the six words which marked a cabinet change: 'Could I have your resignation today?'"

Pearson, reporting from Washington, wrote: "Few people outside the White House know it, but President Truman detailed to Secretary Early the embarrassing job of requesting the resignation of Francis Biddle as attorney general."

"Apparently not wanting to see Biddle face to face, Truman asked Early to handle the matter. Early called the attorney general on the phone, abruptly broke the news," Pearson further reports in detail how Biddle went to see Truman and objected to having the request for his resignation detailed "to a secretary."

"Embarrassed, President Truman agreed," Pearson concludes. So you can take your choice. But instead of the President being embarrassed, there should be at least one blush between the two columnists.

THOSE MEMORIALS—Most folks don't know it, but city officials all over the country are in a tremor lest the postwar period bring down a rain of memorial monstrosities on city parks and public squares.

After the last war (and following prior wars, as far as that concerned) self-starting groups decided arbitrarily that the proper memorial was a graveyard tablet, or a granite shaft, or marble lady with an urn would be a slightly bit of memorial art. And city authorities found themselves powerless to say no. If they did they would have been accused of being "unpatriotic."

Trends and tastes are changing, thank goodness, and the public today is thinking more in terms of functional memorials than the "arty" bits of nonsense of yesterday. The public is looking forward to the day when fund-raising for memorial purposes will go to purchase recreation or playground equipment, enlarge parks, or construct needed community buildings.

If memorials must be built, carillons are growing in popular favor. Such structures help beautify public parks and the sweet sound of the chiming bells tell their own story of remembrance.

SPRING IN E. T. O.—Mrs. Ella B. Kieser of Bay Shore Road writes that she has received a letter from her son, Sgt. Bill Carey, describing spring in the European Theater of Operations.

"Well, Mom, spring has come to Germany, too. Already Nature is trying to cover dust and rubble with grass and vines, and the orchards all in bloom amidst this desolation and destruction are sort of heart-breaking."

"But the sight of such beauty in a place like this serves to uplift a fellow. It has given me new hope and renewed my faith, to realize that God is still here. It isn't quite the God-forsaken place it seemed," Mrs. Kieser's letter from her soldier son came after she had described to him the coming of spring to this Upper Peninsula land that he loved. "Your sequence of letters—all bring back such happy memories," he wrote her.

For her own part, Mrs. Kieser comments: "As a Mom, I feel so humbly grateful that the boys can go through the endless, lonely months of war, and yet be able to even see an orchard in bloom!"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Col. R. S. Allen now on active service)

Washington—Major job facing Congressman Clinton Anderson of New Mexico as he takes over the War Food Administration (he will also be secretary of agriculture) is to weed out the key men who kept food production down to minimum levels. Some of these men wanted to aid the big food firms, others couldn't forget the days when federal policy was to kill off little pigs.

Last year, for instance, War Food Administration concentrated on trying to clear off all surplus fats—even permitting the use of edible fat for soap and paint. This year there is a shortage. Last year WFA held out to the bitter end against bringing all meats back under rationing; it actually discouraged hog production and permitted meat canning facilities to work at less than capacity. Everyone knows the result this year.

Last year, when the War Production Board proposed facilities to provide an additional 300,000-400,000 tons of cattle feed from the mash left over from distilleries, WFA killed the project and permitted thousands of tons of potential feed to go to waste. Only last month WFA reversed itself and okayed the program.

Last year Tom Stitts and Dewey Termohlen, heads of the dairy and poultry branch of WFA, were worried about too many chickens and eggs. Termohlen wanted the national goal for 1945 set 25 per cent below 1944; but the figure was finally set at 16 per cent less—later raised to only 8 per cent less. Early in April, the masterminds suddenly awakened to the fact that the country faced a serious shortage of eggs and poultry. Suddenly they urged farmers to increase their flocks by 20 per cent—too late to do much good before midsummer.

—POULTRY STAMPS—

Termohlen's prize scheme last year was for a poultry subsidy program awarding one dollar per hen if 70 million hens were marketed at once. At that time, of course, eggs were plentiful and poultry was not. Fortunately, the plan was never adopted.

The plan called for issuance of stamps by WFA, with the government to pay the farmer 50 cents for his hens at marketing time. The stamp would then remain with the hen through various transactions until it reached the wholesale market. At this point, the stamp would be returned to WFA agents, who would compare the stamp number with their records and pay the farmer the other 50 cents—if the poultry population of his farm had not increased since he originally sold the hen.

Finally, WFA never enthused over OPA efforts to crack down on the poultry black market. Today, with the army unable to lay up any stockpile of poultry despite a complete set-aside in four major poultry areas, the black market is such a sizeable racket that trucks are being hijacked in the Midwest just as in prohibition days.

Present plan is to order a set-aside for the army of all poultry in the entire Midwest—including Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Kansas, Nebraska, the Dakotas, Iowa, Indiana, Illinois and Ohio. In addition, OPA may soon announce a system for licensing all poultry handlers.

On the bright side is the fact that farmers responded so well to the April call for increased poultry production that hatchery production in the latter part of April was greater than in any corresponding period in the past.

—HE WHO GETS SLAPPED—

Whereupon, Chairman Cannon, who had already voted "aye," changed his vote to "no." Representative Joe Hendricks of Deland, Florida, asked why.

"In every conversation I've had with the gentleman from New York (meaning Taber), he made it plain that he favors this $2,500 allowance," replied Cannon.

"When I voted just now, I firmly believed that the gentleman would vote likewise. And I do not intend to have this become a political issue."

Taber then denied that he had said he would vote for the $2,500 allowance. This aroused the ire, not only of Cannon, whose blood was already boiling, but of Congressman O'Neal of Kentucky and several other Democrats. They insisted that Taber had okayed the extra funds.

"You want the extra dough," they stormed, "but you also want to be in a position to attack it for political reasons." Finally the storm subsided. But a few days ago, when the whole matter did become a political issue, just as Cannon predicted, the irate Missourian called Taber into his office and socked him in the eye.

NOTE—When Congressman McCormack of Massachusetts was criticized twenty-five years ago for voting to increase the salary of assembly members from $1,000 to $1,500, he told his constituents: "If you want a $10,000 man for $1,500, vote for me. If you want a $500 man for $1,000, vote for my opponent." All fair-minded observers in Washington agree that congressmen deserve a salary increase. There is also complete agreement that they have gone at it in the most inept way possible.

WARREN TALKS AT MEET HERE

VA Will Pick Site That Will Best Serve Veterans

The Veterans Administration will place the 250-bed government hospital on the Upper Peninsula site that will best serve the interests of the disabled veterans of the region, L. A. Warren, special VA inspector, told a group of Gladstone and Escanaba citizens at an Escanaba Chamber of Commerce luncheon at the Sherman hotel yesterday noon.

Mr. Warren, who completed the inspection of the Gladstone bluff and other suggested Delta county sites, assured the group that serious consideration would be given to all the locations offered in the district. He left yesterday for Menominee to make similar inspections.

Carl Wickman, president of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, presided at yesterday's luncheon meeting. Brief talks were given by Sam R. Wickman, mayor of Escanaba; Henry Cassidy, mayor of Gladstone; John A. Lemmer, superintendent of the Escanaba public schools; Wallace Cameron, superintendent of the Gladstone public schools; Ole Thorsen, chairman of the Delta county board of supervisors; Alfred Brandt, representative of the Carpenter's Union; Arnold Alsten, president of the Escanaba Trades and Labor Council; and Gerald J. Cleary, Office of Veterans Affairs.

In his talk, Mr. Cleary reviewed the history of the efforts to obtain a veterans hospital in the Upper Peninsula. He pointed out that the idea was conceived by the August Mattson post of the American Legion in Gladstone as far back as August, 1937. In recent years, a committee, representing Gladstone and Escanaba, has been working on surveys and other matters pertaining to the project. It is expected that the site will be selected and work started on the hospital by next fall.

SCHOOL HEAD HIRED

Pickford — Jack W. Malette, Pickford high school principal and coach for the past year, has been selected as superintendent for Pickford township schools.

The selection was made at a Pickford township board of education meeting, May 28. Mr. Malette succeeds E. A. Bowers, who has resigned his position to accept a position to accept a position as administrative head of the newly organized high school district at Prophetstown, Illinois.

Mr. Malette received his Master of Arts degree from the University of Michigan in 1943 and his Bachelor of Science degree from Western Michigan College of Education, awarded in 1938.

Jolo, Sulu Archipelago (AP)—The chant of a Moro dancing girl recently at a festival in the village of Parang attended by officers of the 163rd infantry, 41st Division, revealed to American authorities the story of a heroic attack by Navy patrol planes on a Japanese convoy in the early days of the war.

After an elaborate feast a Moro girl, wearing elaborate combs of beaten gold in her black, braided hair and rings of pearls on her fingers, appeared before the army officer guests and to the accompaniment of the pulawats (Native cymbals) she began her chant.

Two Flyers Executed

An interpreter told Lt. Col. Leonard A. Wing, Bozeman, Mont. regional executive officer, and Lt. Col. James R. Kent, Willow Creek, Mont., that she was singing the story of how the Japanese had come to the island, and of the American flyers who had been captured and executed by the Japanese with Samurai honors.

The officers became greatly interested in the story of the flyers and from many native sources were able to piece together an account of what happened.

Three days after the Japanese landed at Jolo on Christmas eve, 1941, six navy patrol bombers raided Jolo where a large concentration of enemy shipping stood off port.

The Catalinas attacked at low level, December 21, and succeeded in sinking one crowded Maru type enemy transport and a cruiser. But anti-aircraft fire was intense. Two of the Catalinas were shot down.

Moros who watched the action said a number of men bailed out. The figure varies but the most reliable accounts indicated that at least nine men were helped by natives to reach the small island of Siasi in the Sulu group and from there taken by Vinta sailing boat to Tarakan, Dutch Borneo. They escaped.

Three more flyers were killed in the crash. Their bodies were buried by natives at night without the knowledge of the Japanese.

And there were two flyers whose parachutes brought them down near an enemy warship. These were the men who became heroes in the Moro legend.

Wouldn't Reveal Base

As the story is told now on Jolo, the captive Americans were taken before the Japanese commander, Commodore Sizaki, who demanded that they reveal their base and the number of planes still operative. The Japanese air blitz of the Philippines still was underway at this time.

The Americans refused to tell the enemy anything but their names and serial numbers. Questioning went on for several days but the two flyers would not betray any information of value.

Then the Japanese commander called a dress parade of all his forces on Jolo. Standing at attention at Jolo Airfield with the Rising Sun flag fluttering overhead, Nip soldiers looked on stolidly while the two Americans were brought before them with their hands bound behind their backs.

Pointing to the prisoners the Japanese commander extolled them for their bravery in refusing to reveal information to an enemy. He told the Japanese troops that these Americans should serve as an example to them if they were faced by similar circumstances. Then the two flyers were given the "privilege" of dying for their country.

Their heads were cut off.

Anna Mae Gallagher
Weds Roy W. Schmit

At a charming June wedding which took place at St. Patrick's church yesterday, Miss Anna Mae Gallagher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Gallagher, State Road, became the bride of Roy W. Schmit, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Schmit, 808 South Tenth street.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fr. Norbert Freiburger. Music included the traditional Wedding March, from Lohengrin; the Mass of the Shepherds, sung by the church choir; a solo, Ave Maria, sung by Lenore Herro, and the wedding music from Mendelssohn's Midsummer Night's Dream.

The bride wore a gown of white satin, with a full train, and her finger-tip veil was gathered by a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses. The matron of honor, Mrs. W. J. Wertz, wore a gown of aqua net over taffeta, and carried pink carnations. Lloyd Peltier was the best man.

Ushers were James Bink, Neil Boucher and Robert McCarthy. The bride's mother, Mrs. B. J. Gallagher, chose a brown dress, and wore beige accessories. She wore a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Schmit, mother of the bridegroom, wore a dress of grey print, with black accessories, and a gardenia corsage.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast for forty guests was served at the House of Ludington. A tiered wedding cake formed the centerpiece of the table, which was attractively decorated with candles and flowers.

The couple left for Milwaukee, the bride choosing for her wedding trip a suit of beige garbarine, with which she wore brown accessories and a corsage of yellow tea roses.

The bride was graduated from St. Joseph high school, class of 1941, and later attended Mount Mary College, and the Business Institute, both in Milwaukee. Mr. Schmit was graduated in 1942 from Escanaba senior high school, and attended Michigan State College at Lansing. He is employed in the office at the Escanaba Paper company. Mr. and Mrs. Schmit will make their home in Escanaba.

Presbytery Camp
Opens On July 6

Applications are being received for enrollment at the Presbytery Point camp for boys and girls and advance requests indicate a record attendance.

Sponsored by the Lake Superior Presbytery of the Presbyterian church, the Point will be open five weeks, the first two for boys, 10 to 14, the third and fourth for girls, 10 to 14, and the fifth for a junior conference of high school girls and boys.

Enrollees the first four weeks have the option of staying one or two weeks, the boys' period being July 2 to 9 and 9 to 16; the girls July 16 to 23 and 23 to 30.

Excellent Accommodations
Presbytery Point is one of the popular summer camps sponsored by church organizations in the Upper Peninsula. Situated on a point jutting out into Lake Michigan, it is in a beautiful setting, with modern and complete accommodations for campers.

It is operated under the direction of the Rev. and Mrs. N. U. McConaughy, Iron Mountain. This year Miss Helen Kent, director of girls' physical education in Sault Ste. Marie, will be the water front director. The Rev. Elmer Giesler, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Ishpeming, is camp manager.

For the young people's conference, July 30 to August 6, the Rev. Robert Woods, Muford, will be in charge, assisted by the Rev. William Harvey, Manistique; the Rev. David Buzza, Menominee; the Rev. Stuart Werner, Iron River; the Rev. Frank Mease, Pickford; and the Rev. Herman Bothner, Houghton.

News From Men In The Service

Reporting to the Army Ground and Service Forces Redistribution Station at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, Pfc. Albert Matschinske is now living in one of the newly remodeled "non-GI" barracks that have been rebuilt to house overseas returnees. He is from Engadine, Mich. He returned to the U. S. in February 1945, after serving 30 months in the South Pacific with a reorganization unit. He wears the Asiatic-Pacific and Good Conduct ribbons.

He will be at the redistribution station less than two weeks waiting reassignment. The primary function of the station is to reassign the returned soldier to army job for which he is best fitted, consideration being given his combat experiences, and qualifications. Aside from his necessary processing appointments, which require only a few hours of the day, the veteran is free to enjoy the resort facilities available in and around San Antonio. An extensive program of entertainment and recreation has been planned for the returnees.

Pvt. Matschinske reported to this station after spending an 85-day furlough at his home in Engadine with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Edward Matschinske.

Kenneth G. Peterson, who is temporarily stationed in Austria, has been promoted from private to corporal. Cpl. Peterson served with the Eleventh Armored Division of Gen. Patton's Third Army in Germany.

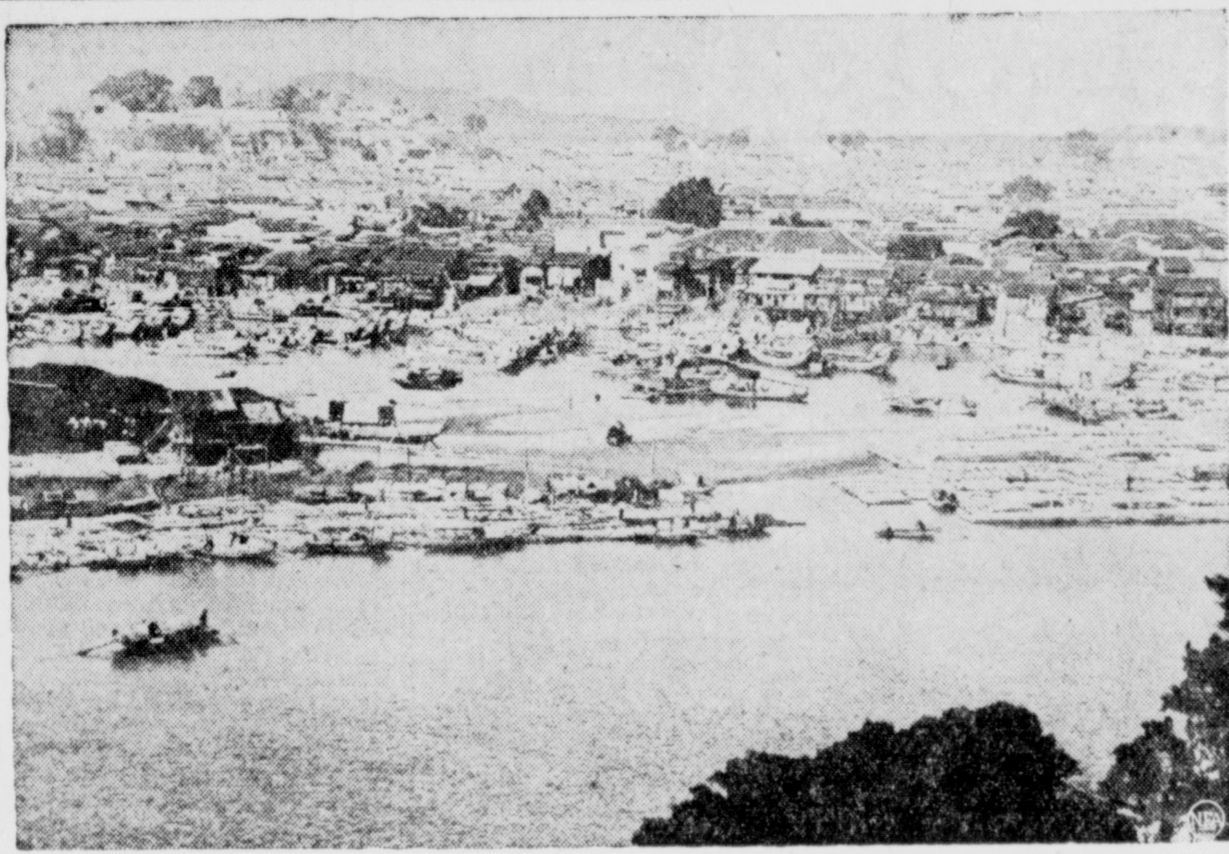

Camp Carson, Colo.—Pfc. Paul Huff, son of James Huff of Escanaba, Mich., is a patient at the U. S. Army Convalescent hospital at Camp Carson, Colo.

The U. S. Army General and Convalescent hospital is situated in an ideal spot for outdoor recreation activities. Sightseeing trips to the various scenic places in and near Colorado Springs are arranged for patients.

Emphasis is placed on pre-occupational training so that convalescents can find what skills they have and thus discover what type of occupational training they want in the veterans' administration program after returning to civilian life. Practical arts are some of the most popular subjects taught.

Pfc. Huff was with the 95th Infantry Division in Normandy, France, and Germany. He has two brothers in the service, C/1c John Lee Huff, at Grosse Isle, Mich., and Pfc. Joseph B. Huff in Europe. Pfc. Huff wears the E. T. O. with three stars, and the Good Conduct ribbons, Infantry Combat badge, and the Presidential Unit Citation.

Need Tackle

Sounds fishy, but the United States Army, for which all requirements quickly should be available, has had a heck of a time obtaining fishing equipment! Materials for fishing tackle were among the first requisitioned for war.

There are many men in the army, who could be having some of the finest fishing in the world right now, if they had the tackle. The army does get a trickle of fishing gadgets, but only a trickle. For one thing the army can't get a priority on the metals required for rods and reels. The army recently did get 20,000 sets of golf clubs, but can get no tackle, not even for wounded veterans who want to cast and fish.

A number of individuals and organizations have been doing a real job of supplying some of the items needed by servicemen both here and abroad. The Army Special Services division had an urgent call for tackle from the Pacific Theater. The country was scouring for months and then in mid-May Major Robert E. Jones found a manufacturer who possessed not only the material but the manpower to produce 75,000 deep-sea fishing units.

Officials of The Bowlers Victory Legion were notified, they came through with a check for $65,000 and by now some of that fishing equipment is probably on its way. That same BVL, of which most of Escanaba's bowlers are a part, last year supplied overseas Yanks with 17,250 fishing kits.

Each of these new units contains assorted ringed hooks, assorted snelled hooks, a variety of trolling spoons, feathered jigs, assorted sinkers, trolling weights and other items dear to the hearts of anglers. Each line is 150 feet long, tests 100 pounds and is wound on a large core bearing the BVL greeting.

For Wounded

In Michigan the Detroit Bait and Fly Casting Club (MUCC) has engaged in a program to teach convalescing veterans at Percy Jones hospital casting. They plan to start the program with 12 complete casting outfits and are asking the sportsmen of the state to help. Any fishermen who can spare a reel, a rod, a line or a dollar, can aid in giving these servicemen some enjoyment while they are trying to get back to good health and learn to do without an arm or a leg.

Near Home

Latest request to come to this corner's attention is for tackle for 240 boys that the army has guarding prisoners of war in the woods, of all places, Michigan! These boys general's school at the University of Michigan, is now stationed at Camp Edwards, Mass. Harold Beaton, who returned from duty in the South Pacific some weeks ago, is also attending the school.

Body Of Aged Man Found Near Shack

The body of Christ Johnson, about 71, an old age pensioner who resided alone in a shack near the mouth of the Escanaba river opposite the village of Wells, was found Friday night a short distance from his shack by two boys.

Undersheriff John Fredrickson and Coroner Keivill Murphy of Escanaba, who investigated the death, said that he had been dead for about 24 hours before the body was found. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

The body was discovered about 6:30 o'clock Friday night by Abner Westcott, 14, of Wells, and Bert Davis, 12, of the Chemical Plant location, while they were walking along the river bank. The body was about 700 feet from Johnson's home. A package of groceries was on the ground near the body. Officers said they believed Johnson was on his way to his shack when he was stricken.

Johnson has no known relatives. He had worked at Wells and in that vicinity for several years.

The body was taken to the Degnan funeral home, where funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon with the Rev. L. R. Lund officiating. Burial will be made in Lakeview cemetery.

Perkins

Perkins, Mich.—Mrs. Carl Brannstrom received a letter from her husband, Pvt. Carl Brannstrom, telling her he has arrived overseas and is now in Germany.

Mrs. Victoria Pepin of Trenary is visiting with relatives here this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray LeClaire were in Escanaba Tuesday.

Miss Violet LeBresh is a medical patient at St. Frances hospital in Escanaba.

Among those who were in Escanaba on business Friday were Mrs. Henry Norden, Miss Della Sharkey, Mr. and Mrs. D. LeGault, Jim Looby and Adeler Gerow.

SAULT VALUATION FIXED

Sault Ste. Marie—Assessed valuation of real estate and personal property in the city of Sault Ste. Marie for 1945 totals $15,962,040, an increase of $80,390 over the 1944 figures, according to City Assessor-Auditor S. M. Stephenson. The board of review held its annual sessions last week to fix valuations. In 1944 the assessed valuation of the city was equalized by the board of supervisors at $15,881,650.

The city general tax levy rate per $10,000 valuation in 1944 was $16.21. In 1945 it will be $16.16, Stephenson said.

Margraten, Holland (AP)—Ten thousand American doughboys today were given the dignified farewell that didn't come—that never comes—with death in battle.

It was a short, sincere Memorial Day tribute, a salute from 21 guns and from 16 generals.

Most of us who attended didn't want to come, partially because it meant a 400-mile trip back to the U. S. Ninth Army's main cemetery, but mostly because such ceremonies invariably present a false picture, no matter how sincere the intent behind them may be.

40 Acres of Graves

Forty acres of dead in neat individual graves. Row after row of clean, shining white crosses, flowers brought by grateful, hardworking, volunteer Hollanders decorate every grave. Green sod and a hedge and thousands upon thousands of soldiers and civilians line the cemetery's edge.

And down at the end, gleaming in the intermittent sunlight, the American flag floats gently at halfmast.

And the clean white helmets of the army bandmen sparkle and the bugler stands erect, alone in a frozen silhouette and the clear, sharp sobbing notes of "Taps" cut through the thick silence of thousands who stand rigidly, swallowing in spite of themselves.

All that you see on Memorial Day. You think of it as representative of all those who died in battle—you associate its decency, its dignity, its clean, quick surge of patriotic fervor with all death in combat. And such ceremonies inevitably leave you with a false mental picture.

For death in combat has no dignity. It has no decency. It has no flag, no bugle, no surge of patriotism. It has no sureness of purpose, no concrete convictions, not even any cleanliness.

We knew how those men died. We saw some of them die, and mostly it was only a dull painful process of life departing a body that once was whole.

Dead Had to Wait

And then those broken bodies—once strong and alert assets toward eventual victory—lost even that value and became only useless liabilities.

Stacked like a cord row they sometimes were, because the living were still fighting and the dead would have to wait. Then finally they were trucked back from the battle line, back from the enemy land to be laid on friendly soil.

That's the way it was, and knowing that, few men wanted to come today. But they did anyway, and most of them were glad. Because the ceremony was simple, honest and sincere. It had no fancy speeches. It was more a neighbor's goodbye and a thank you than a soldier's salute.

"In happier days they were our neighbors—our friends," said Lt. Gen. William Simpson, the Ninth Army's Commander, said slowly in a short tribute which he concluded simply with "Let us carry on. They would have it so."

Then he took a wreath and placed it on the grave of an unknown soldier. For a moment he stood at the grave's head, hesitant, then he straightened his tall, lanky frame and held a sharp salute for a long, silent second. Then, with his face drawn down in bitter grimace, he strode back to his place.

One by one other generals followed, each putting a wreath on the grave of some known soldier of his individual outfit. Then taps broke the stillness and the bandmen played the Star Spangled Banner as the flag slowly rose to the top of the pole.

Then it was over and somehow it seemed that the dignity and decency which was denied the soldiers during their violent deaths finally had been laid with the laurels on their graves.

The last backward looking wave came from thousands of doughboys who filtered down the rows between the crosses and sought out their sidekick's graves, and then—before leaving to go home or the Pacific warfront—stood there a moment saying a silent goodbye.

Furniture Of Molded Plywood Is Forecast

By DOROTHY CAREW

New York, (AP)—Chairs and tables will be stamped out like automobile bodies when the war is over.

Wartime developments in the use of molded plywood and lightweight metals such as aluminum and magnesium are expected to result in mass production of better furniture at lower-than-ever cost.

Laminated wood home furniture was introduced just before the war. Since then the material has been used almost exclusively for glider planes, small seagoing craft and other vital war products.

J. W. Folger, vice president of Artek-Pascoe, Inc., said his company had turned out small quantities of molded plywood furniture during the war years and was now in the process of expanding to meet the post-war demand.

Mass Production Methods

J. Gordon Lippincott, head of Dohner & Lippincott, industrial designers, predicted that molded plywood furniture would be in production six months after the Japanese war ends.

"Mass production cut automobile prices, and mass production of furniture should result in a better product for less money," he said.

Lippincott disclosed that molding processes had been perfected through war uses, plants already were equipped with machinery to turn out plywood products, and that civilian production could begin as soon as materials were available.

"Furniture design may be greatly influenced by plywood," in the opinion of Mark Apple, advertising director of Modern Age Furniture Co. "Bonding glues of such indestructibility have been produced that plywood will be infinitely superior in strength and flexibility, pointing the way to stamped out and bent plywood worms of extreme versatility."

Asserting that there would be revolutionary changes in furniture design after the war, Walter P. Margulies, interior design director of Dohner & Lippincott, said: "New materials will bring an entirely new concept of construction."

Round Flowing Lines

He added that furniture would tend towards round, flowing lines instead of the squared off effects of the past because design was determined basically by the qualities and limitations of the materials used.

Wooden furniture, he said, was built on a skeleton construction principle with joints and supports giving the piece its strength from within. Molded plywood, on the other hand, acquires comparable strength from the outside through monocoque or "stressed skin" construction—a type exemplified by an egg.

The trend towards smaller homes, Margulies predicted, would bring "lighter weight, smaller and lower, more comfortable furniture—made to fit the human anatomy."

He said that plastic impregnated table tops would do away with disfiguring cigarette burns and stains, while synthetic fabrics and synthetic and natural fiber combinations would be moth-proof, fireproof, creaseproof and more sanitary than those now in use.

Furniture men agree that while metals will be used widely in the commercial field, they will have little place in homes except for utility rooms. However, Margulies said, stamped aluminum frames and rubber foam cushions might well replace the complicated basic wood, webbing and spring construction of upholstered chairs.

The trend towards modern furniture is more pronounced than before the war, with industry surveys indicating that 50 to 55 percent of postwar furniture will be modern.

Furniture supplies now are at the lowest point since the beginning of the war. Manufacturers do not expect improvement until Japan is defeated.

Lumber and textile shortages were expected to continue for some time, industry spokesmen said. They indicated that most furniture makers would restrict production with successful pre-war designs to build up a supply of badly needed goods before introduction of new products.

Edda Mussolini To Avenge Husband's Death With His Diaries Exposing Fascist Intrigue

Mussolini, Hitler and Count Ciano are absorbed in their work during one of their frequent meetings, but Edda maintains that the "German barbarians" are responsible for Italy's entering World War II

Ciano Is Revealed As Furious Over Nazi Treatment

BY CURT RIESS
(Copyright, '45 NEA Service Inc.)
Paris—Edda Mussolini Ciano declares that her late husband, foreign minister in her father's Fascist government, begged Il Duce not to push Italy into World War II. Among other things he opposed the attack on Greece. His opposition was not on moral or ethical grounds, however. It rested on fear that Italy would find—as she did—much stronger opposition than Mussolini anticipated.

Read Diaries
Edda permitted me to read, in Ciano's diaries covering the period since 1939, his entries on certain meetings with Hitler and Ribbentrop that Ciano attended with Mussolini. Her continual interruptions, apparently inspired by desire to justify her husband's position, made it impossible for me to absorb much new information.

Ciano's diaries often speak disrespectfully of his father-in-law and political boss, whom he blamed for having brought about Italy's downfall by yielding to Hitler's will. Edda was naive when I asked if she did not think her father was guilty in having taken Italy into war.

"Didn't my father, after the Ethiopian war, make it clear to everyone? Didn't he officially state that he no longer wanted any territory?"

"I looked at her in amazement. 'What about Albania? Greece? What about Munich? What about Italy's declaration of war against France?' I asked.

"It was as though she didn't hear anything I said. She repeated stubbornly: 'My father isn't guilty. My father didn't want all this to happen. It is this cursed Hitler and this thrice cursed Ribbentrop and all those German barbarians who must be held responsible.'"

Edda told me that contrary to general belief, her father was anti-Semitic, but in a very primitive way. He believed that Jews were "Jettatori"—that is, that their very look could bring misfortune. This is an old Italian superstition. Mussolini never wanted Jews around him if he could help it.

Edda says that she herself never had anything against Jews. On the contrary, as a young girl she planned to elope with one until her father discovered the scheme and intervened. Later, when anti-Semitic laws were introduced in Italy, she said she looked up her one-time fiancé, who meanwhile had married, and helped him and his family migrate to South America.

She made it clear throughout our conversations that she had nothing but contempt for Nazis and particularly for Hitler, who she says never did impress either her or her husband.

She pictures Hitler as a hysteric who would start crying at the slightest provocation, not from sadness but because he was so deeply moved by something perhaps by Mussolini's friendship, or perhaps by the "quite wonderful spirit of the Italian people."

"It was disgusting," she says. She read to me excerpts from the diaries in which Ciano demonstrated fury at the Nazis for treating him as a messenger boy to be ordered around. Pages of the diary that I saw myself are filled with sarcastic and sometimes amusing remarks about Hitler and his entourage.

In view of Edda's persistent defense of her family, I brought up the role of her brother Vittorio who in a shameful book on his experiences as a pilot in the Ethiopian war expressed the joy with which he blew up helpless Ethiopians in a "beautiful adventure."

"My brother was so young," responded Edda. "He really didn't mean any harm."

She couldn't see why anyone should be perturbed about the Ethiopian episode, which had nothing to do with World War II. The Ethiopians were savages and it would have been a good thing if they had remained under Italian rule, she suggested. She felt the same about the grab of Albania, which was one of her husband's favorite projects.

For Greek War
"If we had stopped in Albania, everything would have been all right," she said.

"It is true," she conceded, "that my husband officially came out for the Greek war. He had no choice. But as the world will see from this diary, he never wished it, always believing that we might run into more opposition than my father believed."

Another point that she stressed repeatedly was that Ciano did all in his power to prevent the outbreak of war in 1939, and after hostilities began he tried to arrange for an early armistice, but she said he was not taken seriously by the Nazi leaders.

The diaries show Benito Mussolini as the reckless, utterly immoral egotist that the democratic world considered him. And this was supported by Edda's own story of the early life of the Mussolini family before the "march on Rome."

In conformity with Socialist dogma Mussolini was not married to the mother of his children. Following the party line, he opposed Italian entry into World War I on the side of the Allies until, after many window-smashing demonstrations against his residence, he shifted position. Then the Socialists did the window-breaking.

When Benito went to Rome he left his family in Milan for some time. His daughter says he didn't always send money for their support.

"Of course," she added, "Father just forgot. He had so many things to think of."

Edda exhibits no disapproval of her father's many affairs with women. She seldom mentions her mother, who she seems to feel was not a substantial enough woman to have been Il Duce's wife.

What Edda will do with the Ciano diaries, now that they have failed to save her husband's life and her father also is dead, seems uncertain. She has had numerous offers for them, and she says that attempts have been made to obtain them on behalf of both Axis and non-Axis governments that fear revelations they contain.

Fortune Lost
At one stage she contemplated as a spectacular gesture, turning her contents over to the late President Roosevelt and to Prime Minister Churchill. She went so far as to begin copying them on a typewriter but found the mechanics of that machine too much for her, and gave up.

I have looked them over, under her watchful eye, and I am convinced that they are genuine. They are handwritten in large, ready-made diary-books with a page for each day. Some days have only a few lines; for others the notes overflow onto several extra pages pasted in. The covers were torn off when Edda secreted the volumes on her person while fleeing into Switzerland.

Aside from jewelry, the diaries constitute most of her resources. Like the Nazis he despised, Ciano grabbed himself much property and wealth, but it is all in Italy, and Edda assures me that none was transferred where it now is available to her. Again, this was not a matter of ethics. "It all came so fast," she said.

Edda firmly intends to use the diaries to destroy those whom she considers responsible for her husband's death. But up to the time I talked with her she had not decided yet how that could best be accomplished. She scoffed at the idea of their being taken away for copying.

"I'll never allow myself to be separated from these diaries," she said. "I am perfectly willing to have the diaries photographed while I am present. But the time hasn't come."

Women Golfers Open Play On Thursday

The ladies of the Gladstone Golf club will hold their opening meeting of the season with a 1 o'clock luncheon on Thursday, June 7. Following the luncheon, golf and bridge will be played.

Mrs. Elmer Beaudry is the chairman of the event, and she is being assisted by the Mesdames H. J. Bray, Dayton Beebe and Reynold Anderson.

Sgt. Shirley Miller Safe In Allied Hands

Sgt. Shirley Miller, son of William C. Miller, 1302 Delta avenue, has been a prisoner of war in Germany and has been liberated, it is learned here.

Mrs. Miller, wife of the sergeant, writes that he is in France awaiting transportation home. She also advised that she had received a message from the War Department saying he was in Allied hands and safe.

Press Q&A Service

What do you want to know? We will answer questions on any subject not involving extended research. Legal or medical advice cannot be given. Write your question clearly, sign your name and address, and (IMPORTANT) Mail This Coupon and a 3-cent stamp, self-addressed envelope to Daily Press Service Bureau, 1217 Thirteenth St., Washington 5, D. C., for a personal reply. Don't telephone; write as directed.

Q. What amount of postage is necessary when writing to a prisoner of war or internecine?

A. None. Letters may be sent postage free if the sender places in the upper left-hand corner "prisoner of war" or "internecine" and the words "postage free." The sender's address should be placed on the back of the envelope.

Q. Is there a time limit on the filing of an application for an "initial family allowance?"

A. Yes; written application must be filed within 15 days after the date of entry into active service in a pay status.

Q. Is the husband of a WAC eligible for family allowance?

A. Only if he is dependent upon the wife for chief support.

Q. When was the Star-Spangled Banner legally designated as the National Anthem?

A. By Act of Congress, March 3, 1931.

Q. Is it proper to wash a United States flag?

A. No disrespect for the national emblem is shown by simply cleaning it. It is in keeping with flag etiquette to wash or dry clean an American flag, and it is the proper thing to do with it when it has become soiled. Likewise it is proper to mend a flag when torn.

Q. Do thunderstorms cause buds to grow more rapidly?

A. If the buds come out more rapidly after a thunderstorm the increased growth is due to the shower which accompanies the storm rather than the thunder.

Q. My gums bleed easily. Is this unusual?

A. A healthy gum is not easily injured. When gums bleed with little cause, consult a dentist, because some abnormal condition may be present.

Q. We want to store our good rugs at home. How can we be sure that moths are not going to attack them?

A. Rugs cleaned with strong vacuum cleaners and thoroughly brushed on both sides are freed from infestation if the work is thoroughly done. They should be generously sprinkled with naphthalene or paradichlorobenzene and wrapped tightly in paper with these crystals. Be sure that the seams of the paper are sealed tight with gummed paper.

Walter Anderson In Unit Commended By General Patton

"The highest honor I have ever attained is that of having my name coupled with yours in these great events. * * * History records no greater achievement in so short a time," so wrote General Patton in commending his Third Army for their great exploits during the months of February and March.

Cpl. Walter U. Anderson, city, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Anderson, city, is a member of a unit of the Third Army.

The commendation dated March 23, 1945, reads: "In the period from January 29 to March 22, 1945, you have wrested 6,484 square miles of territory from the enemy. You have taken 3,072 cities, towns and villages including among the former: Trier, Koblenz, Bingen, Mainz, Worms, Kaiserslautern and Ludwigshafen."

"You have captured 140,112 enemy soldiers, and have killed or wounded an additional 99,000 thereby eliminating practically all of the German 7th and 1st armies. History records no greater achievement in so short a time."

"This great campaign was only made possible by your disciplined valor, unswerving devotion to duty, coupled with unparalleled audacity and speed of your advance on the ground; while from the air, the peerless fighter-bombers kept up a relentless round-the-clock attack upon the disorganized enemy."

"The world rings your praises; better still, General Marshall, General Eisenhower and General Bradley have all personally commended you. The highest honor I have ever attained is that of having my name coupled with yours in these great events."

"Please accept my heartfelt admiration and thanks for what you have done, and remember that your assault crossing over the Rhine at 2200 hour last night assures you of even greater glory to come."

MICHIGAN AIRPORTS—This airport map of Michigan shows how citizens of this state will participate in the nationwide airport expansion program being sponsored by the Civil Aeronautics Administration and now under discussion in Congress. When completed there will be 213 airports in the state with many communities having such facilities for the first time. The program is designed to encourage private flying and the development of the commercial air transportation systems. Exclusive of buildings, hangars and special facilities such as restaurants and shops, the cost of the state program is estimated at $28,813,000 of which half would be paid by the Federal government and half by local agencies. This map was prepared by the Cities Service Company from official records of the CAA.

America in Myth and Legend
The publication of a new book, "Steamboat Days," by Mary Wheeler, underscores the fact once more that America is becoming increasingly interested in her own myths and legends. Besides Miss Wheeler's book, there have been a number of attempts in recent years to get the folklore of America down on paper.

Miss Wheeler, who is a native of Paducah, Ky., the birthplace of Irvin S. Cobb, set out a few years ago to collect the folk songs of the river-packet era. She went to the only places where those songs could be found: the cabins of the aging Negroes who remember their roustabout days of 50 or 60 years ago, and can sing the simple melodies as they were sung in the golden age of traffic on the Mississippi, Ohio and Tennessee. The result was "Steamboat Days." In addition to getting down in black and white the words of many songs that had lived only in the memories of people—many of whom couldn't read or write—Miss Wheeler has given the background of many of the songs, with pictures of the old packet days. Much of it is material that never saw print before.

A few years before his death the late Charles Edward Russell did something of the same kind of thing in a book that he called "A-Rafting on the Mississippi." In his volume Mr. Russell collected the legends of Mississippi river lore that had until that time lived for the most part only in the memories of living men and women.

Two or three years ago Professor Beck of Mt. Pleasant did the same thing for much of Michigan's folklore in his collection, "Songs of the Michigan Lumberjacks." His method of collecting his material was similar to that of Miss Wheeler and Mr. Russell—that is, he went direct to living men and women who remembered the songs and the tunes.

More recently still B. A. Botkin, in charge of the archives of American folk song of the Library of Congress, has brought together in a single volume a mass of stories, ballads and traditions of the American people that can only be described as encyclopedic. It is called "A Treasury of American Folklore." The scope of the publication can be gathered from the fact that the book contains 932 large and closely printed pages. There is not much in legend, myth, song, ballad that is not found in this volume—the most ambitious attempt to date to put into permanent form the floating folk literature of this nation.

Much of this is of minor importance as literature, but it bids fair to become the seminal impulse to future literature. As long ago as 1809 Washington Irving complained that, in terms of literature America's cultural soil was shallow. He wrote that he began his "Knickerbocker's History of New York" to furnish his native city with a folklore. To quote his words, his purpose was "to clothe home scenes and places and familiar names with those imaginative and whimsical associations so seldom met with in our new country, but which live like charms and spells about the cities of the old world, binding the heart of the native inhabitant to his home."

Nearly a century and a half has passed since then. The 20th century has provided us with an authentic American literature and now the time seems to have come to fill in the background of folklore and legend. Folklore usually remains uncollected until a people has grown up culturally.

INSULTED IN MY OWN HOME
They say a man is a king in his own castle, his home, in this country but this isn't always true. Sometimes he is shown up by a man who should know that some secrets should be kept and not leave him stunned with betrayal. It just happened that John and Anna, from Gladstone, Mich., and Charles and Mayme from Manistique, Mich., came down on a combined business and pleasure trip to spend the week end with us. It happened that V-E day came along just the day they were leaving.

We had all been together when the armistice was signed Nov. 11, 1918. Everyone was happy but me. Dean had dropped in the night before and while Ruth Mary and the rest of the girls were all talking about such foolishness as hats, clothes and recipes with no butter we men folks were discussing more important things.

Dean was all geared up to do a little talking about hunting but Charles had hardly gotten through telling about his deep diving springer spaniel, his duck retriever, and the only diving springer in all the upper peninsula of Michigan, when John started telling about a big northern pike.

I knew John had caught this northern pike right under my nose in Big Bay de Noc up there in Delta county some 25 years ago. While Dean was clearing his throat to tell one, I broke in quickly to change the subject before John got to the point of explaining how he had hooked and lost that same fish.

I swung into a story about a big rainbow which ran seven pounds and was taken from a stream only three miles from my home town. The river was rather narrow and a seven-pound rainbow is some-participating in the various air shows and was in New York at the air show.

CITY POSTWAR PLANS REVIEWED

City Manager Gives Report Of Proposed Projects

Extensive improvements in the city, to be a part of Manistique's postwar improvement effort, were elaborated on in a report made this week to the city council by City Manager C. D. Manson.

Mr. Manson had been to Saginaw, conferring with the Francis Engineering company of that city, concerning plans and specifications of the local postwar planning program which the company is preparing.

Listed first on the city's program, Mr. Manson revealed, was the city water project which includes a complete study of the various sources of city water, a study of the financial structure of the city water department and recommendations for its betterment. Also being considered in this connection are plans and specifications for any construction work contemplated. This program, he said was about forty per cent completed.

The second proposed program covers sewers which takes into consideration the extension of the city's sewer system into all parts of the city. Construction of both sanitary and storm sewers are being figured in the project along with plans and specifications for a sewage disposal plant. This will be far the most extensive project considered. Plans are 60 per cent completed.

The third project has to do with extension of streets, curbs and sidewalks. This project is about 80 per cent completed.

Blueprints for the various master plans have already been prepared. One of these is for the master street map of the city. The map itself will be a white line map made on linen six feet square. It contains not only the names of the streets, but home locations, business places and industrial plants as well. Copies of it will be made and placed on sale for those who desire them.

Gym Exhibitions Draw Big Crowds On Two Evenings

"Settin' up exercises" can be lots of fun—maybe for those who participate in it, but certainly for those who are on the sideline watching them. At least they were splendid entertainment for the crowd that packed the school gymnasium Thursday and Friday evenings to witness the annual gym exhibition of the school's physical education classes under the direction of Miss D. Brazeau and Thor Reque.

The entertainment consisted of demonstrations in calisthenics, games, dances, drills and some very spectacular acts of tumbling put on by the students. Particularly amusing was the "storm the fort" contest in which two picked teams sought to throw their opponents from crossing a barrier. Tumbling acts were performed by high school boys and provided thrills almost as good as those seen in vaudeville. American, Russian and British folk dances, enacted by girls in characteristic costumes were very popular with the audience as was also the final drill of the evening in which the girls participating terminated their maneuvers with formations spelling out "U-S-A."

thing to brag about when he is caught on a fly in such a narrow stream as the Day's river.

Just as I was about through with my story there was a lull in the conversation among the ladies and my statement that "the rainbow ran seven pounds on my own scales," Dean broke in.

"Those were good scales, weren't they Sid?" he asked. Then he turned to the girls and said "Bill told me about those scales, and I think it is well that you hear about them."

Then he started telling them how glad Bill was to learn that he was going to be a father. When the baby came, Bill was going to take his weight every day, so he rushed over to my house to borrow my scales.

Dean said, "That baby weighed 27 pounds on Sid's scales and Bill fainted." Well, it is all right with me if he wants to play that way. Some day when they aren't shouting so much and can hear me talk, I'll tell 'em about Dean and that partidge on the Wolf river.

Off The Chest ...

BY JAY ARRELL

Our good friend John I. Bellaire, who is, without a doubt, this region's most consistent booster, came to our office the other day fairly seething with righteous indignation. He had just read a book entitled "Call This The North Country," written by one, John Bartlow Martin and was up in arms over the way his beloved Upper Michigan had been libeled.

Friend John said he would like to know what brand of firewater inspired this Mr. Martin when he wrote this batch of bunk because some of the statements made in his rather sloppily prepared book are as tall as some of the goofy things accredited to Paul Bunyan.

A few of the gems of misstatement in the book are to the effect that the Upper Peninsula "is still a tough country. It is fifty years behind the times. You still see jacks and miners bawling on Saturday nights. You see drunken squaws clawing one another in the center of the street. Facilities for tourists are inadequate. A really first class meal is hard to buy in Upper Michigan. The region is not geared to make your visit painless. The clannishness of the people is maddening to an outsider."

Somehow or other, we couldn't get as excited or angry over the book as Mr. Bellaire had been. We had once before tried to read it but found it rather poor stuff and after noting a few chapters dealing with the local scene, returned it to the library. Personally, we can't see where it will warn many people to steer shy of this region.

The effort of the author to insult and lampoon the people of Upper Michigan reminds one of the old classic about the man in the barber shop who wanted to know "Who Stuffed that White Owl?" and then went on to cast slurring remarks about the work of the taxidermist only to find out in the end that the owl was alive. The poem concludes with the line: "And the barber kept on shaving."

Upper Michigan has been the inspiration for some very fine books in recent years. Gifted men and women have visited this land and have been impressed with its loveliness, with its history and with its wonderful natural resources. Such books as "Boom Copper," "Long Ships Passing Through," and "Lake Superior" picture Upper Michigan as it was and is—a land that thrills and inspires. People all over the country read these books and found themselves wishing to see the wonderful region they so vividly described.

It has long been a trick of mediocre writers to parody that which is popular. The discordant note, even though it be a squeak, can always be heard and be the cause of comment. Mr. Martin evidently wanted to write a book that would attract a little attention. He parodied the good things that have been said about our region—played up all the seamy and sordid gossip about Hurley, Wisconsin, and Seney as characteristic chapters from Michigan's early history and scoffed at our claims that this is a tourists' paradise.

He sneers at our hospitality and says that a really first class meal in Upper Michigan is hard to buy. He has our sympathy. First class meals are not likely to be found anywhere for a man dependent for a livelihood on such books as "Call This The North Country."

Well "the barber kept on shaving," while the owl critic was showing off, and Upper Michigan resorts will continue to invite tourists and show them a good time. Snooty Broadmoore Hotels and Coral Gable resorts may be few and far between in these parts but there are ample facilities for men and women of ordinary means to enjoy themselves in this the most heavenly bit of God's outdoors in all America.

And we would like to suggest

Swedish Music To Be Played At Festival

Would you like to get a glimpse of Sweden?

The Dorcas society of the Gladstone Lutheran church, dressed in Swedish costumes, is coming to Manistique, Thursday evening, June 7, at 8 o'clock, to put on a program at the Zion Lutheran church, under the sponsorship of the Bethany society. The program consists of poems in Swedish, one in English; a reading, describing midsummer festivities; two accordion duets of Swedish marches, and a group of Swedish songs.

After the program, refreshments will be served in the church parlors and a display of Swedish handicraft will be shown.

The Good Old Days Lacked Spotters—

Some telling ads of years ago were featured by Sapolio. A place, they said, of great renown was that there burg called "Spotless Town." T'was cleaned and polished in a way that made the place look fresh and gay. Those ads, I'm sure, sold lots of soap and also helped to spread the dope that places that are spic and span are the best suited homes for man. But "Spotless Town," we're sad to say, was only spotless in a way, because the cleaner and the spotter did his work with soap and water. Thank goodness that's not true today. Spots are removed the modern way. Bring clothes to us and we will spot 'em. They'll look as nice as when you bought 'em.

Aeronautics Commission Grants Permit—Work Has Begun

The Township of Doyle will have an airport.

Favorable action on the part of the State Aeronautics commission in granting $2,500 for construction purposes to augment a like amount raised by the township, has made the project a certainty and preliminary work has already begun. Volunteer labor has cleared the area and a survey and the work of leveling off is now in progress. The site selected is about an equal distance between Gulliver, MacDonald and Clear lakes—a matter which the sponsors believe will be of distinct advantage to aviators and the place will be easy to spot.

Under Earl Bowman, as superintendent of construction, the work being done by volunteer labor is being speeded to completion. Machinery and other working material—including the services of a bulldozer—are also being donated.

Members of the township board of supervisors who voted the necessary funds and attended to preliminary details are William Davidson, Carl Nelson, Hilmer Bjorkman, Basil Reid and Claud Baird. Members of the board are stressing the fact that theirs is the smallest community in the state to petition the aeronautics commission for a permit.

HOMER IN 8TH BEATS DETROIT

Sweep Of Sunday Bill Needed To Split Even At Boston

Boston, June 2 (AP)—Johnny Lazor's eighth inning homer with two mates aboard provided the Boston Red Sox with a 5 to 1 victory over the Detroit Tigers today as Clem Hausmann staggered six Detroit hits.

Lazor's big wallop came off Tiger Reliever Art Houtteman, but Joe Orrell, lifted for a pinch-hitter in the seventh while trailing 2-1, was charged with the defeat. Orrell gave five hits in six innings in his second straight losing effort as a Detroit starter.

The defeat, second straight at the hands of the Sox, left the Tigers needing a sweep of Sunday's twin bill for an even break in their last eastern series of the current road trip. Detroit hasn't lost a series since the Red Sox swept three games in Detroit nearly a year ago.

Ben Steiner's single, a passed ball and Tom McBride's hit to center produced a Boston run in the first inning but Detroit tied it up in the fourth without benefit of a hit. With one away Roy Cullenbine and Rudy York drew successive passes. Roger Cramer forced York and Cullenbine to score all the way from second when Eddie Lake threw the ball away trying for a double play.

Bob Johnson's walk and singles by Lake and Bob Garbark hit the Red Sox a run in the fourth to make it 2-1. The Tigers filled the bases in the fifth on singles by Orrell and Bob Maier and Eddie Mayo's walk but Cullenbine was out on a pop fly and York on a bouncer to third.

Steiner singled to lead off the Boston eighth and took second on McBride's sacrifice. Johnson was purposely passed, setting the stage for Lazor's three-run homer off Houtteman, his first circuit blow of the season.

For the second straight day cold weather put a damper on attendance, only 4,352 sitting in on the proceedings.

Paul (Dizzy) Trout and Hal Newhouse, Detroit's hot right-left punch of 1944, were named to start Sunday for the Tigers against Yank Terry and Jim Wilson of the Red Sox. Trout will be making his first start in two weeks since pulling a muscle in his side.

Outfielder Powell

Quits Washington

Washington, June 2 (AP)—Jake Powell, 35-year-old outfielder, quit the Washington Senators today and told newspapermen, I'm through.

Powell learned before the start of today's game with the Chicago White Sox that he was being benched. He left the park in civilian clothes. Vince Ventura took his place in left field.

Powell has not been hitting well this Spring and made a costly double error on a hit into his field in Friday night's game, which the White Sox won in 11 innings, 11 to 9.

Formerly a star with the New York Yankees, Powell is a Maryland policeman when not playing baseball.

Rookies And Tyros

Scheduled Today

Weather permitting, Al's Rookies and Tommy's Tyros of the junior baseball league will play a practice game this afternoon at two o'clock at the city diamond.

It is planned to organize a four team 'teen age league with entries from Escanaba, Gladstone, Nahma and Stephenson.

GIANTS NOSE CHAMPS

St. Louis, June 2 (AP)—The League leading New York Giants evened things up in their series with the St. Louis Cardinals by nosing out the World Champions 3 to 2 at Sportsman's Park tonight.

The Red Birds loaded the bases in the ninth after Napoleon Reyes fumbled Marty Marion's grounders. There was only one out but George Fallon struck out and Del Rice flied out, spoiling the Cards' chances to win by one score, as they did last night when a St. Louis rally ended in a four to three triumph.

New York 000 101 100—3
St. Louis 000 000 200—2
Mungo, Adams and Lombardi; Burkhardt, Jurisch, Dockins and O'Dea.

PIRATES 7, PHILS 6

Pittsburgh, June 2 (AP)—Vince DiMaggio hit a pinch home run with the bases loaded today against his former teammates, the Pittsburgh Pirates, but it wasn't enough as the Buccos defeated the Phils 7-6.

It was DiMaggio's eighth homer of the season and came in the sixth with the Phils trailing, 4-2. However, two wild pitches by relief pitcher Oscar Judd and an error gave the Pirates three runs in their half of the inning and the Phils their sixth straight loss.

SINGLE SETTLES GAME IN TENTH

Grandfather Joe Heving Scores 5-4 Verdict Over Bruins

Chicago, June 2 (AP)—A tenth inning single by Catcher Phil Masi, who earlier hit one of the Boston Braves' two homers, gave Reliever Joe Heving a 5 to 4 victory over the Cubs today in the veteran American League hurler's debut in the National League.

Masi's single off Hi Vandenberg, fourth Cub pitcher, scored Joe Muck from second base. His homer, along with one by Tommy Holmes with one on, came in the third off Paul Derringer. The homers gave the Braves a 4-3 lead when rain interrupted the game for 29 minutes in the seventh inning.

A fumble by Second Baseman Frank Drews and singles by Andy Patko and Pinch Hitter Paul Gillespie gave the Cubs the tying run in the eighth, after which the 39-year-old Heving, only grandfather pitching in the majors, succeeded Johnny Hutchings and held the Cubs to one hit in the last two and two-thirds innings. Johnson homered off Hutchings in the fifth inning.

Carden Gillenwater, Braves' center fielder, was hit in the face by one of Derringer's pitches in the second inning, and, after collapsing at the plate, was able to walk to the club house, where an examination indicated no fracture.

Twin Wins Clinch Title For Michigan

Lafayette, Ind., June 2 (AP)—Ray Louthen and Bliss Bowman, co-stars of the Michigan pitching staff, tossed the Wolverines to their second successive Western Conference baseball title today as they turned back Purdue in a double header, 9 to 2 and 4 to 3.

Louthen outpitched Purdue's Bob Buysse with a five-hitter in the opener, but Bowman was forced to unlimber his own bat to win in the second game. The lanky lefthander, tagged for eight hits, singled to start a three-run rally in the third inning and then singled across the winning run in the fourth.

The double victory ran to eight Michigan's unbroken string of conference triumphs for the season. Purdue dropped its ninth and tenth decisions in 12 starts.

Spartan Conquers Loss Of Sight, Housing Shortage; Is Track Star

Wayne Finkbeiner's little family lives in a trailer but daddy is out in front in track. Michigan star gets kiss from year-old daughter Sandra Lee when he leaves for classes.

By NEA Service
East Lansing, Mich.—Wayne Finkbeiner is not the first ex-service man at Michigan State to feel the pinch of the housing problem. Catcher Don Brown of the baseball team left school several weeks ago when he was unable to obtain space for his wife and baby.

But Finkbeiner, 24-year-old discharged Army lieutenant, was not discouraged by the practice followed by East Lansing landlords who refuse residence quarters for families with young children.

Nor did the loss of sight in his right eye, suffered last year as the result of an injury incurred in a football game between service teams at Walnut Ridge Air Field in Arkansas, halt the Hastings, Mich., star's ambition to become a doctor of veterinary medicine.

Mrs. Marie Finkbeiner keeps a collection of her husband's track awards in a large, padded box. It now contains 24 medals.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

The high school track season over, only a break in the weather is awaited to swing the junior baseball league into high gear. Al Ness, director of the junior ball program, reports that interest has increased tremendously this year but that weather conditions have been so atrocious that it has been difficult to maintain the practice program. Conflicts with the high school track program also has interrupted the baseball program.

More youngsters are reporting for baseball this year than at any time in the past five years, Ness reports. The 23rd street diamond will be put into condition and will be utilized, along with the new diamond adjacent to the athletic field. There will be at least three local junior teams for mid-way play, probably in a league that will include teams from Gladstone. In addition, an all-star team, selected from the best players in the local junior league, will be formed to play Sundays in another league not yet organized.

Selectio on Fred Klaus of Menominee as U. P. softball commissioner does not necessarily assure Menominee of being host to the annual U. P. tournament, despite such an announcement this week in the Menominee Herald-Leader.

It is true that the tournament was conducted frequently at Escanaba when Beaver Butts was commissioner, but each time selection was made by majority vote of the teams entering the tournament. The commissioner does not pick the tournament site, but he does conduct the balloting.

Only a few track coaches filled out their questionnaire regarding the proposed changes in the U. P. Relays at Escanaba. E. E. Edick has reported. Others may arrive later in the mails but it is likely the various schools in the peninsula are content to let the Escanaba officials revise the Relays program as they see fit, without being bound by divergent opinions from the coaches. It has not been indicated what course will be taken concerning the proposed revision, but there is no hurry and the matter probably will be held in abeyance for some time.

Chicago, June 2 (AP)—The spot butter market was nominally unchanged today. Receipts were 483,796 pounds compared with 1,226,774 pounds yesterday. Grade AA, or 10 score, was priced at 41 1/2 cents a pound.

Chicago, June 2 (AP)—The spot egg market was nominally unchanged today. Receipts were 17,535 cases. Extras were quoted from 34 1/2 to 36 cents per dozen, standards at 34 1/2 cents and current receipts at 32 1/2 cents.

Chicago, June 2 (AP)—Grain markets dipped slightly under profit cashing at mid-session today but offerings dried up on the break and prices made a quick recovery. At the finish gains ranged from minor fractions to more than a cent.

Cash handlers bought corn and oats and some of the wheat market for wheat futures, the trade was active and all prices except those for barley were on the upside most of the day.

New seasonal highs were established for all corn contracts and for most

CONTRACTS FOR P-W'S REVISED

Time And Half Must Be Paid For Work Over 40 Hours

Renegotiation of contracts for use of German prisoners of war to cut pulpwood, cedar posts, chemical wood and ties in Michigan's Upper Peninsula to provide payment into the United States treasury of time and one-half pay for work over 40 hours per week has just been completed, it is announced by Colonel George H. Cushman, Fort Sheridan post commander.

The new contracts will add from $7,500 to $10,000 additional each month to the sum paid into the United States treasury by five lumber and paper companies involved in the new contracts, it is estimated by Lieut. Col. E. R. Schuelke, commander of the base prisoner of war camp at Fort Sheridan.

Five P-W Camps
The companies are: Nekoosa-Edwards Paper company, Port Edwards, Wisconsin; William Bonifas Lumber company, Neenah, Wisconsin; Munising Paper company, Munising Michigan; Bay de Noquet company, Nahma, Michigan; and Newberry Lumber and Chemical company, Newberry, Michigan.

Approximately 1,250 German prisoners of war are cutting pulpwood and chemical wood in the Upper Peninsula, being housed in five branch camps. Camp Raco is near Sault Sainte Marie, Camps Evelyn and Au Train are near Munising, Camp Pori is near Mass, and Camp Sidnaw is near Sidnaw.

From January 1 through the week ending May 19, the prisoners of war in these five camps have cut approximately 1,650,000 sticks of pulpwood, 330,000 cedar posts, 61,000 ties, and 11,250 cords of chemical wood, according to statistics compiled from the weekly bills prepared at the office of Major Joseph A. Westbrook, contracting officer at the prisoner of war camp. During this same period, the firms employing the prisoner of war labor have paid approximately $250,000.00 into the United States treasury.

During the renegotiation of contracts, executives of the five companies reported that their mills probably would not have been operating had the prisoner of war labor not been available. In the case of the Newberry Lumber and Chemical company, it was reported that this company definitely would have had to shut down months ago but for the prisoner of war labor. As it is now, the amount of chemical wood being cut for the company has permitted an increase in output.

Under the new contract, the time and one-half rate is charged on all work over 40 hours performed on work paid for at an hourly rate such as saw filing, blacksmithing, and common labor. In the case of actual cutting of pulpwood or chemical wood, which is paid for on piecework basis, the time and one-half rate is paid on work over 40 hours but not to exceed 48 hours.

The prisoners of war receive 80 cents per day in canteen coupons when working. The employers pay prevailing wage rates for the work done as fixed by the War Manpower Commission which also must certify that civilian labor is not available. Payment is made directly into the United States treasury.

Rain Causes Dodson Show Cancellation

Dodson's world fair shows, scheduled to open at the U. P. fair grounds in Escanaba tomorrow under auspices of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, has been cancelled, according to word received here last evening.

The show is now at Green Bay and because of excessive rain the show will not move this week. From Green Bay the show will go directly to Negaunee, by-passing Escanaba.

Construction of the training camps required approximately 2,000 board feet of lumber per soldier or sailor.

Munising News

Put-Put Fishermen On Increase; Trout Bite At Munising

There has been a decided increase in the use of small boats with an outboard plying the shoreline from the paper company's dock to the Coast Guard station in quest of mainly lake trout but if a steelhead or rainbow happens to strike they aren't thrown back in.

Since the advent of gas rationing sport trolling in Munising Bay has increased in leaps and bounds. The fish were always there but most sportsmen were inclined to fish inland lakes where they were sure of getting a mess of panfish. Several years ago interested sportsmen in Munising petitioned the Conservation Department to close the Bay for commercial fishing and this wish was complied with and this is probably one of the main reasons why lake trout in the bay are on the increase.

On any nice day (and there have been very few this spring) the bay is literally alive with put-puts. You have to be quick on the trigger having one hand on your pole and one on the outboard to avoid hitting someone's boat or tangling lines.

The majority of trollers use the standard equipment of about a twenty five pound test line, heavy bamboo rod and a six inch reel, the fellows that use this equipment are out for the meat. The sporty boys commonly use a fly rod with about a fifteen pound test line and like to give the fish a fair chance, but they don't care a great deal for the meat.

A lot of trolling is done in the vicinity of Grand, Wood and Williams islands but this is considered quite risky in a small boat when it can really whip a bad gale on Lake Superior quicker than you can turn your boat around.

Verland Benson while fishing with Thorvald Marsh last Tuesday

near Grand Island landed a ten pound lake trout on a fly rod. Catches from a pound up to a ten pound trout are common, maybe only one or two at a time, but when you catch hold of a lake trout no matter how big it is they really fight.

P.S. Lots of times you can troll all day and not get a strike.)

Alger Court Term Will Open Monday

The Alger County circuit court will convene Monday, June 4, with jurors scheduled to be called for the session. Court will again be presided over by Judge Herbert W. Runnels.

Nineteen cases are on the court docket, seven criminal, seven civil actions and five divorce cases.

ASSESSMENTS CHECKED

The Munising city board of review will begin its preliminary session to review, examine and correct if necessary, the city assessment rolls on Tuesday, June 5, it was announced this week by city clerk, William Dore.

Final session will open Monday, June 11, when property owners may appear before the board with claims for readjustment of assessment. The final will not exceed three days.

MUNISING BRIEFS

Arthur LaFlamm Jr. is now undergoing boot training at Great Lakes, having recently enlisted in the Navy.

Robert Shirley returned home Friday from Green Bay where he has been undergoing medical treatment.

Mrs. Clarence Hartz, daughter Jacqueline and son Michael, are leaving shortly for Bloomer, Wis., where they will make their home with Mr. Hartz who recently purchased a General Motors agency in that city.

Mr. and Mrs. Sol Marks and daughter left Saturday for North Hollywood, Calif. where they will make their home.

Robert Korpela of Detroit is spending a vacation with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Baldwin.

Mrs. Michael Madigan, Munising, has gone to Milwaukee where she will visit her sisters who are Nuns at St. Marys Convent.
